SENATE TAKES NEW STEP IN TARIFF WORK

Precedent in Ordering Earning Figures of Corporations

OVER CHECKS DEMANDS Exposure of Profits Will Help Give Both Sides Fair Deal

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Washington—An important precedent has been established by the late in ordering the treasury department to furnish the senate with committee information showing the earnings of corporations for tariff protection.

This does not mean that the earnings of companies will necessarily be made public but it does mean that a check has been developed for the first time in American history for the request of manufacturing interests for tariff protection.

With both political parties now united to the principle of the tariff, the only issue will be one of honest protection, fully developed by an industry struggling to protect its industry from foreign competition or to protect its industry from larger profits by raising the cost to the American consumer.

Prices almost up to the height of the tariff wall.

Publicity of income tax returns had a varied career as a piece of legislation having been adopted then repealed, the final compromise being reached when it was decided that congress could on special request request the treasury department to furnish data on income tax returns for the consideration of congressional committees.

REQUESTS INFORMATION—The senate resolution in this instance, however goes farther than mere request for figures. As passed by the senate it requires a statement in detail for each of the five years 1922 to 1928 inclusive of profits or losses as the case may be as well as a separate statement for each of those years on major points as gross sales, net sales, cost of manufacturing, cost of supplies, compensation of officers and the total amounts of profits or losses as the case may be.

The resolution makes it possible for the minority as well as the majority to obtain this information. The secretary of the treasury, unquestionably some of it will get the record of the debates on the floor of the senate though in many instances the profits and earnings of corporations have already been a public in the annual statements of stockholders.

It is a big question as to whether income tax returns disclose an element between the claims of protectionists as to their cost of action and the sworn statement with the internal revenue bureau.

PROCEDURE IS NEW—This is a new way to make a tariff especially as it encompasses record of the last six or seven years, since the last tariff law was passed, furnishing a chart of how the tariff has been working for the benefit of the companies affected by the tariff.

It is a new step in the tariff work. The argument already been made that tariff action downward would hurt business. With amendment furnished by income tax returns, the low tariff group might have made an attack on the tariff particularly those who are in the purchases he has to make.

The western agricultural is arguing that the eastern manufacturers are asking for too protection. The new method of amending tax returns for tariff purposes was agreed to by the union of Democrats and Republicans though a surprise number voted for the resolution may not have agreed with it as a tariff measure, but who did not to be in the position of hiding data needed by the senate committee.

It is well understood that some of the claims for tariff protection are created just as it is also clear that there are some industries in dire need of assistance in ill wind that blows no good but the latter group which has been pleading for protection for years will welcome the opportunity to prove that it was not a cry of wolf that has issued their ranks.

EMENT SIGNED ON TARIFF RECIPROCITY—N. Y.—(AP)—Wisconsin and New York officials have signed an agreement on death tax reciprocity. Thomas M. Lynch, has announced. The agreement became effective July 18.

State's Witness Had Eye On Giese's Job

NAVAL PROBE TURNED OVER TO SUB-GROUP

Open Hearings, Probably Starting Monday, Are Planned

Washington—(AP)—A sub-committee of three members, headed by Senator Shortage, Republican, California, was appointed today by the senate naval committee to inquire into the activities of American shipbuilding corporations at the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference.

William B. Shearer, self-styled naval expert, who has sued three shipbuilding corporations for service he alleges he rendered in their behalf at the Geneva parley, will be among the first witnesses to be called.

Chairman Hale of the naval committee, who was authorized to name a sub-committee to conduct the inquiry, also gave notice that the directors of the shipbuilding corporations named by Shearer would be called.

The committee will be called to meet tomorrow for an organizational meeting and under the present plan is to begin hearings Monday. No witnesses have yet been summoned.

Senators from states in which the shipbuilding corporations involved, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the New York Shipbuilding company, a subsidiary of the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, are located, asked to be excused from service on the investigating committee.

Claiming unpaid compensation of $100,000.

THINKS ENTENTE IN AMERICAS POSSIBLE

Venezuelan Statesman Refers to Monroe Doctrine in League Talk

Geneva—(AP)—Declaring that a real entente among the peoples of the north and south American continents can be developed, Cesar Zumbato, Venezuelan statesman and representative on the council of the League of Nations, today made an important declaration regarding the Monroe Doctrine. He spoke at a conference of the signatory nations of the world court of international justice, and the chairman of the conference, Professor W. J. M. Van Eysinga of Holland, announced that in view of the importance of the declaration it would be reproduced in full in the minutes.

In accordance with the vote of my government for the protocol of adhesion of the United States to the permanent court of international justice, according to the unanimous wishes of the signatory nations said Zumbato, "I have done so the more willingly because of my personal interpretation. If the reservations of the United States were to be applied in connection with a dispute between American states these latter would always find judicial means of agreement in conformity with law and a competent jurisdiction.

"My optimism is not blind. Preoccupations which the Monroe doctrine inspire are daily losing in our continent the acuteness which they once retained on the other side of the Atlantic. The doctrine has been, and will be at each stage of its development no more than a variable whose expression is the result of play of two orders of forces—that of a powerful unity, the United States, in the presence of that of the plurality formed by other American Republics.

"This variable now plays the part of a new force, that of the spirit of inter-American conscience whose influence has been beneficial. It is in the high domains of his conscience that a real continental entente, between all our peoples can be developed.

"It is in this inter-American spirit of loyal cooperation in the work of justice and peace in which the world is engaged that we salute this protocol which creates new bonds of world solidarity under the auspices of the League of Nations."

STATE OF SIEGE IS URGED IN PARAGUAY

Asuncion, Paraguay—(AP)—The chamber of deputies today voted approval of the president's request for authority to declare a "state of siege" throughout the country. The senate is in session and is expected to concur promptly. The president's request was based on a campaign of opposition newspapers which was considered dangerous to the peace of the state.

Banker In Financial Coup Resigned To Fate

New Castle, Wyo.—(AP)—Seemingly unconcerned as to his future, C. D. Waggoner, president of the small Bank of Telluride, Colo., awaited quietly in his cell here today the next action of federal authorities who charge him with a half million dollar fraudulent financial coup.

Unconcerned by the future caused by his manipulations which placed to his credit $500,000 belonging to six large New York banks, through the receipt of faked telegraphic orders, Waggoner told of his financial dealings. During the narrative of the puzzling financial deal, he strove constantly to impress on his questioners that he alone was responsible, that no one else was in any way connected with his actions.

Local authorities who arrested him Tuesday night at a tourist camp near here, still held him on a technical charge of investigation, awaiting a federal warrant from New York to turn him over to federal authorities who will take him to Cheyenne and then to New York. The warrant, en route from New York by air mail, was expected here today.

Meantime, Preston T. McAvoy, county attorney, was en route to Denver with information which he expected to aid authorities there who are investigating the Denver angle of the case that baffled authorities and amazed the financial world. McAvoy's trip to Denver was the result of information found in a notebook contained in Waggoner's clothing when he was arrested here. Although refusing to be quoted, the county attorney indicated his information implicated some Denver persons in Waggoner's deal.

REVEALS SOME DETAILS—Revealing some of the details of his scheme, Waggoner said his only motive in the manipulation was to protect the depositors of the bank of Telluride. After depositing a $500,000 certified check in the Chase National Bank of New York, he drew a check with which he paid off four notes at the Central Hanover Bank of New York. One was for $100,000, an obligation of the Bank of Telluride. Two other notes, similar obligations, were $50,000 each and the fourth was a personal obligation of $15,000.

"All of these were paid," he said, "and I directed the Central Hanover bank to send the collateral which had secured the loans to the Bank of Telluride. I am told that was done and I feel certain the Bank of Telluride has been relieved of obligations totaling $200,000."

Continuing his tabulation of the $500,000 the bank president said after the sum had been partly utilized to pay off the four obligations there were $55,000 on deposit at the Chase National bank. "I said," he said, "that I would deposit $55,000 in the Chase National bank and I did."

"At the Chase National bank I obtained another draft for $225,000," Waggoner concluded. "That made a total of $495,000 drawn and there was left in the Chase National bank a balance of $5,000 out of the half million."

No Inquest Planned In Kvale's Death

Fergus Falls, Minn.—(AP)—Death of Congressman O. J. Kvale, of the seventh Minnesota district, was accidental, county authorities said today and no inquest will be held.

Mr. Kvale's charred body was found in the ruins of his cottage near Battle Lake, Minn., early yesterday. The cottage had been destroyed by fire, which, it is believed, to have been started by the explosion of a gasoline lamp, according to Coroner J. G. Vigen, who investigated.

The body of the congressman was brought here last night and funeral services will be held Sunday at his home at Benson.

Dr. L. T. Kvale, of Willmar, a son, said that his father had suffered from insomnia and probably had taken a sleeping potion before retiring Tuesday night. As a result, he probably was in a deep sleep when the lamp exploded and had no chance to escape. Dr. Kvale said he had warned his father that the cottage was a fire trap.

Five other sons and a daughter survive Mr. Kvale, who was 60 years old.

Meantime, from St. Paul came reports of possible candidates to succeed Mr. Kvale in congress. Mr. Kvale, who was the only Farmer-Labor member in lower house, won his seat in 1922 by defeating the famous author of the prohibition enforcement act, Andrew J. Volstead.

Mr. Volstead has been mentioned as a candidate at a special election which the governor must call within ten days after being notified of a vacancy. At St. Paul last night Mr. Volstead said "this is a sad time" for the political aspects of the situation, but he asserted that if there is a demand that he enter the campaign "it would be difficult for me to refuse."

His legal residence is at Granite Falls, in the seventh congressional district. He now is legal advisor for the Northwest bureau of the prohibition enforcement unit and has been living in St. Paul.

MAN NEAR DEATH IS MARRIED IN HOSPITAL

Milwaukee—(AP)—Using two visitors as test man and bridesmaid, Madeleine E. Myles, 35, and William J. Patterson, 43, were married at St. Mary's hospital here last night as the bridegroom lay near death with a broken back.

Three years ago Miss Myles came here from Scotland. Soon after her arrival she met Patterson, an elevator mechanic, born in Ireland. They pledged their troth.

Then Patterson was seriously injured in an accident. At the hospital he called for Madeleine and she was notified late last night that he was dying and that he wished to marry her.

A special dispensation was granted by a civil judge so that Madeleine could obtain a license and a police judge was secured to perform the ceremony.

Ben S. Grassman and Miss E. Myles, who had come to the hospital to visit a patient, offered their services as best man and bridesmaid. Hospital authorities today reported Patterson's condition was "fairly good."

SCHERCK SAYS HE TALKED OF APPOINTMENT

Ristau Admits Telling Sheriff Confiscated Machines Belonged to Him

Walter Scherck, formerly a deputy sheriff under Sheriff Fred W. Giese and one of the state's witnesses in the proceedings to oust Giese from office, admitted this morning under cross examination by F. S. Bradford, Giese's attorney, that he had talked about the possibility of his own appointment as sheriff in the event Giese was removed by Governor Walter J. Kohler.

Scherck admitted that Dr. D. S. Ristau had approached him on the subject, but he said he couldn't remember if he had talked to O. P. Schlafer, of the Schlafer Hardware company, and Harry Tuttrup, president of the Citizen's National bank about writing to Governor Kohler recommending him for Giese's place if the latter was ousted.

"Did you expect to gain personally if Sheriff Giese was removed from office?" was the question put to Scherck by Mr. Bradford.

"I don't know," was Scherck's reply.

"Did you talk to anyone about your appointment if Giese was removed?"

"Dr. Ristau came to me and asked me about it."

"Did you ever talk to anyone else about this matter?"

"I can't remember."

"Did you ever go to Otto Schlafer and tell him there was going to be a blowup at the courthouse and that Giese was going to be kicked out of office?" And did you ask him to recommend you to the governor for the office?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you ever talk to Henry V. Tuttrup, president of the First National on this same matter?"

"I don't remember."

How Sheriff Giese had offered him a "couple" hundred dollars if he would get evidence against Walter Scherck was told by Joseph Lehrer, Kaukauna, a former deputy sheriff.

Lehrer admitted on the stand that he had collected a bribe of $50 at Freedom and that when he was called to the sheriff's office by Giese he denied taking the bribe. Later, he said, Lothar Kemp, a deputy sheriff, said connected with the sheriff's office, induced him to tell the truth about the bribe.

"Kemp told me that Giese wouldn't do anything if I told the truth," Lehrer said.

KEEPS DEPUTY CARD—He returned to the sheriff's office and told the sheriff the whole story, he testified. Then Giese demanded his star. Lehrer said he also offered Giese his deputy card but that Giese told him to keep it and his star would be returned after "this mess blows over."

Since his star was taken away, Lehrer admitted on cross examination, Giese asked him twice to return his deputy card. The first time he told the sheriff he didn't have it with him and the second time he said it had been torn up.

However he produced the card in court this morning and it was offered in evidence. Lehrer explained he had instructed his wife to destroy the card but she failed to do so.

After his star was taken away, Lehrer said, he was visited several times by the sheriff and he also visited the sheriff at his office.

WANTED AFFIDAVIT—At each of these visits the sheriff asked him if he would sign an affidavit against Scherck, Lehrer said. He claimed he never saw the affidavit. The sheriff also offered him $200 if he would get evidence against Scherck, Lehrer said. He added that

LAWYERS CLASH IN PANTAGES TRIAL

Defense Attorney Protests Prosecution Is Not Acting in Good Faith

Los Angeles—(AP)—Four persons, two of them described as able to give surprise testimony, today remained on the list of prosecution witnesses in the trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages, on charges of second degree murder growing out of the death of Juro Rokumoto after an accident involving Mrs. Pantages' car.

The prosecution indicated it would complete its case before tomorrow. Defense attorneys indicated they might be able to present their side of the case in four days.

A verbal clash among the attorneys which required intervention of Superior Judge Carlos Hardy, enveloped the proceedings yesterday.

Attorney W. I. Gilbert, for the defense, protested that the prosecution was not acting in good faith in placing police officers and other persons on the stand to testify that Mrs. Pantages was intoxicated at the time her limousine crashed into a small car driven by Rokumoto. Gilbert jumped to his feet after four policemen and two eye-witnesses had testified as to Mrs. Pantages' condition and shouted: "If the state is acting in good faith why don't they bring in physicians and surgeons who treated her to testify concerning her condition?"

When Gilbert's remarks were termed as an "insultation" by prosecution counsel the silver haired attorney declared "It is not an insultation. I make the bold statement—I do not believe you intend to bring in any physician or surgeon who can testify she was drunk."

Prosecution attorneys then indicated they later would call expert witnesses to testify as to Mrs. Pantages' condition.

Court intervention here checked further dicker between the counsel.

The testimony which resulted in the exchanges started when Mrs. Dorothy S. Clarke testified Mrs. Pantages' eyes "were droopy, half closed and rather glassy" immediately after the accident and that in her opinion the woman was intoxicated.

GAME WARDENS WILL PATROL HORICON MARSH

Duce Gives Up 7 Posts In Cabinet

Rome—(AP)—Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator, today relinquished seven of the eight cabinet posts he holds in the Italian Fascist government. He remains premier and minister of the interior.

A royal decree announcing the action also contained the notice of replacement of two other ministers. Those of public instruction and of national economy.

The undersecretary for the interior ministry, which portfolio the Duce retained, also was changed in the move, which comprised probably the most sweeping reorganization of the Fascist government since its inception.

The cabinet officials taking the posts held by Signor Mussolini are: Dino Grandi, minister of foreign affairs; formerly undersecretary for foreign affairs.

General Bebono, minister for the colonies.

General Pietro Gozzera, minister of war; formerly undersecretary for war.

Rear Admiral Giuseppe Sirani, minister of marine; formerly was undersecretary for marine.

General Italo Balbo, minister of aviation; formerly undersecretary for marine.

Michele Bianchi, minister of public works.

Giuseppe Bottai, minister of corporations; formerly was undersecretary in that ministry.

The same royal decree announced the ministry of public instruction will be known as the ministry of national education, and that the ministry of national economy will be known as the ministry of agriculture and forests.

Professor Deputy Giuliano Beltrami will become minister of national education, replacing Signor Giuseppe Belluzzo, who held the old ministry. Deputy Landro Arpinati will become undersecretary for interior, replacing Giacomo Suardo, who has held that post.

The new ministers will take oath before King Victor Emmanuel Monday.

In explanation, the suggestion was made in some quarters that the premier had held eight of the thirteen posts in the Italian cabinet for so long only because he wished to become acquainted with the various departments of administration in order to select the best men to put at their head.

His procedure in keeping the portfolio of interior is that which was customary in cabinets before the advent of Fascism. Aside from the premiership the portfolio is considered probably the cabinet's most important post.

Among the new appointments the most noteworthy was that of Undersecretary Dino Grandi to become foreign minister. This appointment was accepted as removing the likelihood of his becoming an ambassador to some important capital, possibly Washington. There had been reports to this effect recently.

REPORT "LINDY" BUYS PLANE FOR HIS WIFE

North Haven, Me.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were at the summer home of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father, today after a flight from Long Island N. Y. in a small sport plane which, it is rumored, the famous flyer is planning to buy for his wife.

Mrs. Lindbergh has made several solo flights in the course of flying lessons her husband is giving her.

The plane was a small open cockpit monoplane, equipped with a 60-horsepower motor and dual controls. Colonel Lindbergh ordered it sent from a factory at Keyport, N. J., to Roosevelt field before he went to Arizona to assist in the search for the missing T. A. T. air liner, city of Los Angeles. He and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived back from that trip Tuesday.

Before leaving Roosevelt field Col. Lindbergh was asked if he intended buying the plane for his wife. He replied that he did not wish to discuss the matter, adding that his present plane, a Curtiss Falcon, satisfied him.

Stock models of the make of the sport plane are equipped with 40-horsepower engines. The larger power unit in the plane sent to Colonel Lindbergh was installed at his request.

EVANSTON ASKS TAFT FOR ORDINANCE HELP

Evanston, Ill.—(AP)—William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, has been asked for advice on a proposed Evanston ordinance.

A difference of opinion having arisen between members of the council over the legality of the proposed ordinance, it was decided to write Justice Taft for his opinion.

The ordinance in dispute proposed to compel citizens to have their automobile brakes tested once a month.

Attacks Tariff

Senator F. M. Simmons, above, North Carolina, Democrat, Thursday opened fire on the tariff bill as debate on the measure opened in the senate. He listed nine "outstanding" objections to the measure.

"It contains many rates and increases upon agricultural products that are useless and ineffective. It is replete with exorbitant rates on articles which farmers buy. It contains numerous instances of higher rates on articles used by the masses than on articles of identical use, but purchased principally by persons of wealth or of more than average means. It does not conform to President Hoover's request for increases on industrial products only when there has been a slackening of employment due to imports. In many cases increases have been granted to industries which have been very prosperous under the present tariff act. It is full of inconsistencies and unfair discriminations. It increases rates on many articles which though the imports under the present tariff act have been negligible. It encourages inefficiency by many of its increases in rates. IMPERILS FOREIGN TRADE—Its excessive increases on many articles imperils our trade with European countries. By its liberalization of the flexible provisions, enlarging the powers and discretion of the president, the latitude allowed the president in the imposition of additional duties is dangerously expanded. Declaring the amendments to the present law made by the house and those proposed by the finance committee majority were not fixed upon a basis of the difference in cost of production here and abroad, but were determined largely in response to the appeals and demands of the beneficiaries of the high and excessive rates" proposed, the North Carolina senator challenged the contention of the majority that the cost of production measuring rod was no longer practicable of application.

He said the Democratic platform declared for equalizing differences in production costs and nothing more and added he could not understand

PARAGUAY RATIFIES FORMULA WITH BOLIVIA

Washington—(AP)—Paraguayan members of the Paraguay-Bolivia commission of inquiry and conciliation today deposited with the commission their government's ratification of the conciliation formula agreed to Monday by Bolivia.

BISHOP WELLER IS GIVEN ASSISTANT

Fond du Lac—(AP)—The Rev. Harwood Sturtevant of Racine, a former resident of Racine, has been elected bishop coadjutor of the Fond du Lac diocese, the Episcopal church.

For four ballots the clergy supported the Rev. Francis Burton, S. J., of Boston, and the laity the Rev. Frederick D. Butler of St. Paul. After a recess, they decided on the Rev. Mr. Sturtevant. He probably will be consecrated on St. Andrew's day, Nov. 30.

The Rev. Mr. Sturtevant is a native of Ishpeming, Mich. He was ordained in 1915 and served first at All Saints Cathedral, Milwaukee. The Rt. Rev. Reginald H. Weller is bishop of Fond du Lac.

POINTS OUT 9 "BAD" POINTS TO SENATORS

North Carolina Democrat Says It Would Add Billions to Tax Burden

LISTS OBJECTIONS

Charges Bill Is Replete With High Rates on Articles for Farmers

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

Washington—(AP)—Nine "outstanding" objections to the pending tariff bill were enumerated in a speech in the senate today by Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, who opened fire on the Republican measure for the Democrats by declaring it would add billions of dollars to the annual tax burden imposed upon the consuming masses.

Aiming his castigation not only at the administrative and special features of the bill but at proposed increased rates as well, the veteran minority leader gave the following reasons why he could not support it:

"It contains many rates and increases upon agricultural products that are useless and ineffective. It is replete with exorbitant rates on articles which farmers buy. It contains numerous instances of higher rates on articles used by the masses than on articles of identical use, but purchased principally by persons of wealth or of more than average means. It does not conform to President Hoover's request for increases on industrial products only when there has been a slackening of employment due to imports. Declaring the amendments to the present law made by the house and those proposed by the finance committee majority were not fixed upon a basis of the difference in cost of production here and abroad, but were determined largely in response to the appeals and demands of the beneficiaries of the high and excessive rates" proposed, the North Carolina senator challenged the contention of the majority that the cost of production measuring rod was no longer practicable of application.

Giese Attorneys Attack Scherck's Story Of Bribe Offer

SAYS SHERIFF TALKED ABOUT MONEY SPLIT

More Witnesses Take Stand to Admit They Operated Slot Machines

How Sheriff Fred W. Giese had suggested that he share a $1,000 bribe which the sheriff had been offered if he would permit the brewery on the Spurr farm in the town of Liberty to operate unlicensed, was described on the witness stand Wednesday afternoon by Walter Scherck, a former deputy sheriff under Giese, in his testimony in the proceedings to oust Giese from office.

Scherck said Giese told him that while $1,000 had been offered, he intended to ask for $2,000. Dan Kelly, former turnkey, Ernest Conrad, undersheriff, Giese and Scherck were to "divide the bribe," according to Scherck's testimony.

When Scherck refused to be a party to the action, he testified, the sheriff instructed him to notify the federal officers at Milwaukee to come to Appleton to raid the plant. Late in the afternoon of the same day Scherck said Giese asked him to try to head the officers off at Fond du Lac and stop them from coming to Appleton.

He said he refused to do this and pointed out to the sheriff that he was likely to get into trouble.

On cross examination Scherck said he couldn't remember if Giese explained that the reason he wanted to head off the prohibition officers was because he wanted to station a deputy at the Spurr farm in an attempt to capture some of the operators of the plant.

"LAND OF SOVIETS" AT TARTAR STRAITS

Nikolayevsk-On-Amur, Siberia — (AP) — Equipped with pontoons for their transpacific flight to the United States, the airplane "Land of the Soviets," piloted by the Russian Ace Semyon Shestakov, landed at this far Siberian city on the Tartar straits today. The next stop of the all-Soviet constructed plane on her flight from Moscow to New York is at Petropavlosk, Kamchatka.

NEW YORK COPS FACE ANOTHER GANG KILLING

New York — (AP) — The finding of a man's body in an automobile parked for several hours near upper Fifth-ave offered police another gang slaying to solve today.

The victim was identified as James Batto, 47, operator of a vending machine business in New Jersey. He had been shot through the head and chest. A police surgeon said he had been dead about nine hours when the body was found.

Thousands had passed a new closed car that stood parked in E. 107-st, just off Fifth-ave, for six hours or more yesterday without giving it a second glance. Some boys were playing ball in the street. The ball bounced into the car and a boy going to retrieve it discovered Batto's body lying on the floor.

William Batto, brother of the victim, identified the body. He told police that James had told him a few days ago that he was having trouble with his partner in his peanut vending machine business.

Six days ago James "Bugs" Donohue, known as a union bug, N. Y. Times, was killed in 21st-st, New York. About a month ago Joseph Chicone, a gang leader, was shot at First-ave and E. 107th, about six blocks from where Batto's body was found. Police said they had nothing by which to connect the three killings.

WOMAN ASKS REVIEW OF HER DIVORCE DECREE

Chicago — (AP) — Claiming her petition for a divorce should have been dismissed, Mrs. Caryl McArthur wife of Charles McArthur, former Chicago newspaper reporter, and co-author of the newspaper "The Evening Post" today petitioned the state supreme court for a review of the appellate court decree which upheld a lower court decision that she was divorced.

Co-incidental with the application for a writ of certiorari was the announcement in New York that players of the show "Coquette" would be given two weeks salary which they sued for, when the show closed because Mrs. Helen Hayes McArthur, the playwright's second wife and star of the show, became a mother. Jed Harris, theatrical producer, sought to defend the action of the Actor's Equity association in behalf of the performers by saying the show was closed by an "act of God" but the Actors' Equity association declared the arrival of the baby was not an "act of God" and that Harris must abide by his contract with the players. The result is the players will receive their pay under their contracts.

After paying their fines, they said, they again operated slot machines in their places. In every instance, it was brought out, the machines were owned by G. W. Ristau, Kaukauna.

Herr told how he had received a telephone call, after his place was raided, informing him that he should see Sheriff Giese before he appeared in court. He said the raiders had taken five or six pints of liquor from his place in addition to the slot machines.

When he called on the sheriff Giese said:

"If you will plead guilty I think I can get you off from the slot machine charge but I cannot get you off from the liquor charge," Herr testified.

Herr couldn't tell who telephoned him.

NEW ORLEANS MAYOR SCORES POLICE FOR USING TEAR BOMBS

Force Is Employed to Disperse Crowd After Street Car Dynamiting

New Orleans — (AP) — Use of tear gas bombs by police and a United States deputy marshal in dispersing a crowd at the scene of a street car dynamited last night three hours after the local car men's union rejected a tentative strike settlement, today brought sharp criticism from Acting Mayor T. Semmes Walmley, a victim of the gas.

"The bombing was outrageous and under no condition will I tolerate such affairs," he declared.

"But I consider the conduct of the United States marshal and the police just as reprehensible in throwing tear gas bombs into the crowd. One landed within two or three feet of me. I saw one thrown at the feet of a woman with a baby in her arms. She dropped her baby and someone grabbed it up and saved it from being trampled on."

The crowd, including the mayor, was attracted to the scene of the dynamiting as the members left a neighborhood political meeting seeking city drainage relief from rains. The dynamite cracked a car wheel but the crew and passengers, a white woman and two negroes, were uninjured. Police threw gas bombs when bricks hurled from the crowd smashed in the car windows.

Four sticks of dynamite were discovered on the Tulane belt tracks three hours later by Motorman U. S. Langston, who stopped his car in time to avert an explosion.

With the board of directors of public service declaring it would complete its organization by filling 400 positions previously held open pending settlement of the strike, the city today was faced with an indefinite traction strike called July 2.

During balloting lasting from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m. yesterday the carmen stood 1,009 to 87 against accepting the agreement reached by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and A. B. Paterson, vice-president of the New Orleans public service, and approved by W. D. Mahon, president of the International Carman's Union. The city was surprised at the outcome of the vote. When terms were announced in New York, union men generally were favorable toward acceptance although they disliked the lack of compulsory membership in the union of the employees. The board of directors of public service accepted the agreement and members of the union were called upon to express themselves yesterday in secret ballot held under police protection.

Edwin Peyroux, president of the local union, said the men would have accepted the New York terms if the public service had been specific about provisions to take the old employees back "as rapidly as conditions will permit." He said public service officials refused to give the union satisfaction on this clause by declining to say when the men should be re-employed.

The board of directors in answer said any vagueness in the agreement should have been taken up by Mr. Peyroux with Mr. Green or Mr. Mahon for clarification of its terms.

STUDENTS VOTE ON SYSTEMATIC WAY TO FINANCE ACTIVITIES

Will Issue Season Tickets Good for All Extra Curricular Events

Questionnaires on whether to continue the financial system introduced by the Appleton high school late last year will be distributed to the students Friday afternoon during the assembly program. The questionnaires are to be answered by the students and their parents. The system was adopted by 75 per cent of the students favoring the plan. An explanation of the system will be made in assembly Friday afternoon by H. Heibie, principal.

It was proposed by the system to do away with buying tickets for each of the 14 different activities. At the beginning of the year the student would pay $5.25 which would buy admission to the various activities: Football games, basketball games, track, cross country and hockey games, debates, oral and extemporaneous contests, vocal recitation, a year's subscription to the Tulsman, a copy of Clarion and admission to the school every two weeks during the year. Banking for the entire year would also be taken care under the new system. If the student is able to pay the full amount he will be given the privilege of paying weekly installments of 15 or 20 cents.

The cost of all these items amounts to $6.71 but under the new system costs only $5.25, a saving of $1.46 to the student.

DONT WANT CITY HALL CEILING DOWN ON OFFICERS' HEADS

Having come perilously close to seeing the annihilation of the Mayor by a falling slab of plaster, the common council has taken drastic measures to keep the ceilings of city hall from coming down on the heads of other city hall officials. The place has needed repairs for more than 10 years but action was slow until it became apparent that anything more than a 70 degree Fahrenheit argument would bring the walls of the council chamber clattering down on the heads of the illustrious body. It was either the cold-blooded murder of some of the members, the prohibition of heated discussion, or the repair of the walls, so the council voted in favor of the latter. Work started Thursday morning, under the direction of John Scholl, and after it is completed it is expected that the city hall will stand for another 50 years — sometimes calmly countenancing the weighty matters of the city, sometimes trembling with the violent explosions of verbal wrath.

$65,035 OF CITY FUNDS EXPENDED

Balance in Treasury $151,972.06 Following Last Month's Expenses

Overdrafts exist in seven departments, election, street flushing, street cleaning, bridge repairs, bond and loan interest, ordinance revision and miscellaneous payments. The most serious overdraft is for street cleaning which cost $9,988.97 more than was budgeted for. Bridge repairs cost $7,916.95 more than was anticipated, and miscellaneous payments show an overdraft of $9,164.20. Ordinance revision cost $1,940 above the budgeted amount, and elections $1,237.28 more.

The largest expense during July was paving, which cost $11,070, bringing the total amount spent in paving since Jan. 1 to $28,287.67. Street department repairs cost $7,318.32 sewer construction $4,160.40, fire department $5,107.14, police department $3,436.72, street department lights $2,743.25, street cleaning $1,872.47, supervised play $1,154.64, ordinance revision $2,573.00, and miscellaneous payments $6,988.96.

NON-RESIDENTS PUT UP LIBRARY DEPOSIT

Board Orders Fund Left at Library to Protect Against Losses

A deposit of $2 will be asked from library borrowers who live outside Outagamie-co. It was decided at a recent meeting of Appleton public library board. The deposit will protect the library from loss of fines and books in the hands of transient borrowers, and in cases where no fines are charged the money will be refunded to the person when the library card is turned in.

A total of 205 volumes was added to the $9,586 books in the library during August, bringing the number on Sept. 1 up to 30,809, of which 23,198 are adult volumes and 7,611 children's books. The number of borrowers added during the month totaled 109, of which 88 were adults. The total number of borrowers at the end of the month was 9,994, 640 of which live in the county and 44 outside of Outagamie-co.

The circulation figures for the month were 1604 non-fiction books, 8,712 fiction, 147 unbound periodicals, and 118 foreign books, aggregating 10,581 volumes. Thirty-five books were received as gifts during August.

About 50 per cent of it has been completed. At present steel railings and ornamental work is being added. The span is 150 feet long and probably 40 feet wide, not including walks on each side. It probably will be ready for use the latter part of this month, according to Hugh Garvey.

THREE POLICEMEN ARE ARRESTED IN LOS ANGELES PROBE

Nine Warrants Ready to Be Served in "Shakedown" Investigation

Los Angeles—(AP)—Two police sergeants and a patrolman were under arrest, nine warrants were waiting to be served, and another was being withheld here today as the result of a grand jury investigation of charges that a "shakedown" ring composed of police officers had collected thousands of dollars in bribes from one Los Angeles bootlegger in five years.

The investigation was undertaken 10 days ago by District Attorney Burton Fitts, upon information furnished by J. B. Wesman, alias Harry D. MacDonald, confessed bootlegger and police "payoff man."

Sergeants Harry M. Hill and Leonard S. Sale, and Patrolman Thomas B. Washburn, of the vice detail, were arrested last night. Washburn later was released on $10,000 bond. The three officers were named in indictments returned by the grand jury late yesterday. At least three other officers were indicted, one of them a former police captain. Their names were not divulged but it was understood they would surrender today, after they had arranged for bond.

Bail bond companies early today prepared bonds, by direction of Joe Kimer, who said he was attorney for the wanted officers, in the names of Lieut. Bob Evans, at one time captain in charge of the vice squad, Patrolman M. H. Ledbetter and Patrolman Oscar L. Peterson. The district attorney's office and investigators declined to say, however, whether these were the men that were expected to surrender.

Whether the three persons named in the John Doe warrants were police officers was not revealed.

ALREADY IN JAIL.

The grand jury previously had issued four true bills, against Westman, his partner in a bathhouse bootlegging enterprise, Gus Pongratz, and two John Does. The warrant against Westman, who already was in jail on a liquor law violation conspiracy charge, was issued chiefly to forestall any action on the part of his attorney to obtain his release on habeas corpus proceedings, pending developments, had been heard. Pongratz had not been found.

Westman was under special guard of two deputy sheriffs in the Los Angeles jail last night, and an armed squad of deputies was thrown about his home in Whittier, Calif., during the night after Frank DeWear, chief of the sheriff's criminal investigation detail, had received a report that three men in an automobile, armed with machine guns, had been seen twice in the downtown district.

The license number of the car, investigators said, showed it to have been registered in Whittier. Westman's wife previously had been removed from her Whittier home and placed under guard in the home of relatives in Los Angeles.

Westman, when arrested ten days ago, confessed to bootlegging activities over a period of six years, during which time his business totaled, he said, more than half a million dollars. He told district attorney Fitts that he was "sick and tired of being shaken down" by the police.

Whenever he showed signs of resistance in "getting on the line," Westman charged, his place was raided, a small amount of liquor held out, and the remainder sold back to him at regular wholesale prices—his purchase of it being the price of quashing the charge against him.

DISTRIBUTE HANDBOOKS TO HI SCHOOL PUPILS

Nine hundred and fifty handbooks were presented to the students of the Senior high school during the home room period Thursday afternoon. The manuals will be used by the Sophomores as a text to get acquainted with the traditions and doings of the school.

The books lists school activities, courses of study, general administrative information and a pupil guide. A meeting of the Sophomore sponsors was held Wednesday evening at the high school to decide how the course would be taught this year. It was decided to set aside each Wednesday home room period for manual study during the first semester.

The students council compiled and edited the book for the fifth year. Betty Meyer and Gordon Holstrom were committee chairmen. The book was secured by any high school graduates from Appleton high school.

LA CROSSE ACCIDENT FATAL TO INDIAN

Brantford, Ont.—(AP)—Responsibility for the death of Hardy Silver-Smith, who died on Sept. 3, as a result of injuries received in a La Crosse game of the six nations Indian reserve has been placed upon Walter V. Martin of Brantford, an Indian jury which heard evidence at an inquest.

Silver-Smith was a member of the Onondaga Royal Reds, who were playing the Mohawk Stars. Testimony was given that Martin had struck Silver-Smith with the butt of his La Crosse stick. Silver-Smith died next day.

KOHLER HEARS PLEA FOR MUENCH PARDON

Application for the pardon of Geo. Muench, serving a sentence in Wauwatu for assault, was presented to Governor Walter J. Kohler at Madison Wednesday by L. Hugo Keller of Keller, Keller and O'Leary.

Muench, who was sentenced with Wilbur Bogan to from one to ten years in Wauwatu for the assault of George Dukwan several years ago, has served three years and eight months of his sentence. Bogan was pardoned about a year ago, and executive clemency in the case of Muench is now being asked because it is felt that he has been incarcerated a sufficient length of time for the offense committed.

NAVAL HEARINGS MAY START MONDAY

Investigation Is Turned Over to Sub-committee to Carry Out

more than $250,000 for his services at Geneva and in opposing disarmament elsewhere, both before and after the conference, Shearer recently filed suit against the three corporations in the New York Supreme court. He asserted that the concerns had already paid him more than $50,000.

These disclosures led Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee to demand an investigation and two days later, President Hoover revealed that he had ordered the justice department inquiry and at the same time called upon the shipbuilding companies for an explanation of their positions with respect to the Shearer allegations.

In public statements, the corporations, all three of which are executing naval construction contracts, substantially denied Shearer's charges, but said that he had been in their employ and had acted as an "observer" at Geneva.

Senator Borah wants the directors of the three concerns called for questioning by the committee and it was indicated that the members were in agreement as to the advisability of such a course. Prominent naval officers are to be called also, should it develop that they are involved.

The investigation received the unanimous authorization of the senate yesterday when it adopted without a roll call a resolution by Senator Borah empowering the committee to demand the attendance of Senator Elaine, Republican, Wisconsin, asked if the resolution would permit the summoning of naval officers, and Borah replied that it was broad enough in its scope to admit the testimony of such witnesses.

REVEALS DATA SOURCE. Shearer insists that naval information sent to him anonymously before the Geneva conference was embodied in an important volume from the confidential files of the navy department. It had to do, he says, with all the naval fleets of the world and served as the source of much information that he disseminated to the press while at Geneva. A belief expressed here that the volume was one that was sold to the public for 20 cents, he characterized as "silly." He plans to bring the book to Washington with him for the committee hearings.

An investigation of the source of this volume may lead to the summoning of the naval officers. Shearer said that the book came to him in an unstamped "official business" envelope of the navy department.

Members of the nav-l committee are determined to go into all phases of Shearer's activities at Geneva. Although today's meeting was closed to the public, it was regarded as certain that when the actual investigation begins, the hearings will be in open session.

ENGLAND NEEDS LARGE NAVY, SAYS CHURCHILL

San Francisco—(AP)—Great Britain's problem in the Holy Land and naval disarmament were among the subjects touched upon by the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the British exchequer, today in his first interview with newspapermen since his recent arrival in San Francisco.

The British statesman chatted with reporters for nearly two hours, in a discussion of world affairs. His theme was hopefulness and tolerance. His belief is that the quadrangle of the world, if given reasonable time, can be satisfactorily adjusted.

In Palestine, Mr. Churchill said, the Jew and the Arab must make up their minds that the future of both depends upon their living together in amity. Neither can be given an exclusive right of way.

"Great Britain's problem in Palestine is to persuade the Arab that he must live in amity with the Jew," he said. "To Jewish enterprise the Arab owes nearly everything he has. Fanaticism and a sort of envy have driven the Arab to violence and for the present the problem is one of proper policing until harmony has been restored."

Contrary to the general belief the British visitor said in discussing naval armaments. Great Britain really welcomes an American navy as large as her own. Britain would not reduce her navy, he asserted, as three-fourths of her food is brought to her over the seas. This factor makes necessary a large navy, he explained.

Victor Kaye, Jr., town of Oneida, was given 30 days by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning to patch up differences with his family and again support his wife and four children. Kaye was arrested on complaint of his wife. The case was held open when Kaye promised to find a new home for his family and start taking care of them.

Non-support case is help open for 30 days.

Miss Ruth Gillette, 1208 N. Richmond, left Thursday to attend La Crosse State Teachers college.

Was County's Big Mystery Just A Joke? Well, Perhaps

Plan World Tour

Out around Eertonville a story is being passed from person to person which, if the truth, solves the mystery of the "something" which was thrown into the Wolf river from a bridge on county trunk M Thursday evening, Sept. 4.

Louis Jeske and Joseph Hasman, game wardens of course, don't rate as high with some persons in the region because of their activities against illegal fishing. And from the story that goes the rounds, it appears a few of the folk out there contrived to "frame" the two men by making believe some dastardly crime had been committed and efforts were being made to dispose of the remains of a human being.

Acting on well laid plans the persons went to the Wolf river bridge near where they believed Jeske and the other warden were working. They drove up in a car with the lights extinguished, stopped, got out and tossed an object into the water with a few additional remarks to make it appear as if a crime was being committed.

The story has gotten to the office of Sheriff Fred W. Giese and he is tracing it to its source. The case has cost the county considerable money and has put Eertonville and the Wolf river on the front page of state and metropolitan newspapers.

Perhaps one of these days, the perpetrators of the joke will be known and then will end Outagamie-co's biggest sensation in many months.

SIMMONS TAKES UP ATTACK ON TARIFF

Enumerates Nine "Objections" to Measure Pending in Senate

why the Republicans were so "anxious to scrap" this rule unless tariff commission investigations had shown that in many cases existing rates exceeded these differences and that there was need for downward instead of upward revision of duties.

The new provision proposed in the bill to determine levies to equate differences in competition, including transportation costs to ports of entry would, in the senator's opinion, "perpetuate the uncertain and elastic principles and practices" that have heretofore and still prevail in the framing of Republican tariff legislation.

In determining the spread between foreign and domestic production costs, he continued, the comparison should be made with industries in this country "that are efficiently and economically managed and not with industries that are inefficiently and uneconomically managed."

"NO CONSTITUTIONAL." The flexible provision enlarging the president's powers to change import duties up or down within a limit of 50 per cent were declared by the senator to be unconstitutional. If adopted, he said, industries would no longer come to congress for tariff relief but would carry all their complaints to the executive and the tariff commission.

Under the heading, "The uselessness of some of the rates on agricultural commodities," Simmons listed corn, malt, lamb, pork, ham, bacon, reindeer cat, barley, oats, buckwheat, rye, flax, and breakfast foods, spices and spice seeds, chocolate and cocoa.

Whiting, watches, pocket knives, scissors, pliers, small arms, fishing tackle, saws, handkerchiefs, lace, wool wearing apparel, women's felt hats, leather gloves, brushes, pencils and pipes were enumerated as articles the farmer buys and on which the bill places "exorbitant rates."

Under an article entitled, "the masses rates on articles used by the masses than on articles used by the nobles of wealth," he listed wool rags, the rate which would be raised from 7 1/2 cents to 24 cents a pound under the bill, and wool blankets and oriental rugs.

The higher duty on wool rags, Simmons contended, "must materially enhance the price of the cheaper woolen fabrics."

SHOWERS, COOLER ON FRIDAY WEATHER MENU

Wet weather is in store for this vicinity for the next 24 hours, according to predictions of the weather bureau. Showers are due by Friday morning and the mercury is due for a drop, he says.

Similar conditions will prevail throughout the middle of the week, and the mercury is due for a decided drop. Cloudy weather prevailed over most of the state Thursday morning, the mercury registered 55 degrees above zero and at noon 74 degrees above zero.

SET EXTORTION CASE FOR FRIDAY MORNING

Max Wharton, 19 year old youth held as accomplice of two women who tried to extort money from Mrs. Elsie Brooks, town of Grand Chute, will have his preliminary hearing in municipal court at 8 o'clock Friday morning. The hearing originally was set for Wednesday afternoon but postponed to Friday.

Wharton, it is claimed, was the driver of an automobile in which two unknown women visited the Brooks home, representing themselves as divine healers. They later started talking about money and finally tried to force Mrs. Brooks to pay them by threatening her and members of her family with injury, if their wishes were not met.

They haven't a penny for expenses but they're going on a trip around the world that is expected to last 18 months. Carl Ziegler, above and Darrell Ware, Northwestern University students, will leave Chicago on an 18-foot canoe for New Orleans from where they will ship out for foreign ports. They plan to tour South American, European and Asiatic countries—and pay their expenses, somehow, as they go, from money earned en route.

On Board the Soviet Icebreaker Sedov in the Arctic, by Wireless to Moscow—(AP)—Any hope that the heroic explorer, Ronald Amundsen, or the Alessandri group carried away with the envelope of the wrecked Italian dirigible Italia in 1928, might have taken refuge on the Russian island of Franz-Josef and was displaced today by the Russian scientific expedition on this icebreaker.

Prof. Schmidt, Russian scientist and geographer, announced that no trace had been found in any of the seacoast settlements on the huge island of the heroic Norwegian or his companions.

If Amundsen or any others who went in search of the Noble expedition landed anywhere on Franz-Josef island they undoubtedly would have made their way to one of the two supply depots left by former expeditions on Cape Flora and Rudolph Islands.

"Both of these points were searched carefully but unhappily we found no trace of the unselfish and enterprising explorers."

Ronald Amundsen was lost with Commander Gullbaud of the Fremantle navy air service while searching for the lost members of the Noble expedition. They set out from Norway and suddenly ceased to radio communication.

FAMOUS LOG CABIN TO VISIT APPLETON

Abode Is Constructed from Douglas Fir Tree 434 Years Old

A log home in which two persons have traveled 13,000 miles and which has been inspected by over 500,000 persons will appear in Appleton Thursday under the auspices of Appleton lumber dealers. The log cabin, completely equipped for housekeeping, is made from one of 10 logs cut from a 211 foot Douglas fir tree in Aberdeen, Wash.

Students of Roosevelt, McKinley, Wilson and the Senior high school got a chance to see the cabin Thursday morning. Stops will be made at the various institutions. From 12 o'clock Thursday noon until 6 o'clock in the evening it will be in the parking place at N. Oneida and W. Washington-sts. It was announced Tuesday.

The log home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wade of Aberdeen, who travel under the auspices of the Pacific coast lumber organizations, has been named Columbus. By counting the annual rings of growth Mr. Wade discovered that the tree was 434 years old when cut in 1924, "born" the year Columbus discovered America. By the time the first settlers moved into Pennsylvania, this Douglas fir-tree had attained a diameter of five feet and was still growing. When the Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia the tree was 234 years of age. In 1863, when the Civil War was in progress, the tree had become a forest giant and was 371 years old.

NEW FOREST FIRES ARE REPORTED IN OREGON

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—While an improvement in the forest fire situation was reported from one section of the state today, new and dangerous blazes continued to burn in the western half of Oregon.

Forest supervisors in western Lane-co, where a dozen serious fires have been burning this week, reported that conditions were "encouraging," although several hundred men were being kept on various fronts to prevent the spread of flames.

A new fire was reported to have broken out on logged off land at camp 40, of the Booth Kelly Lumber company near Eugene, while another returned to Essexville, Mich., after a serious fire was said to have sprung up near Cedar Mills, 20 miles south of this city.

Reports that several settlements in Lane-co were destroyed by fires were denied by forest officials.

More than 2,500 acres of the finest timber in the state, valuable stands of fir and Port Orford lay smoldering under a moosey sky as the Rock creek fire on Coos-co continued to spread despite the efforts of 500 men.

The fire was described by forest officials as "the most disastrous in the state." Reports received here from Vancouver, Wash., stated that the Dole fire on the upper little Washougal river in Clark-co, had burned over about 25,000 acres of timber and logged off land. The fire was said to be threatening the Columbia national forest.

Almost Perfect

One more merit badge—and Paul Thomas, 13, of Surf Lake City, will have all 89 badges possible for a Boy Scout to rate for achievement in scouting activities. Paul now lacks one for archery. But, take it from Paul, he will have that one to his credit before the summer is over. He's shown above, his breast decorated with part of his merit badges.

FROSH ADVISED TO KEEP IDEALISM

Mullenix Tells Newcomers to See Things as They Would Like to Have Them

Dr. R. C. Mullenix urged the Freshmen to retain their idealism in his address in convocation Thursday morning. "See things as you would like to have them rather than as they are," he advised.

The applications of the class of 1933 showed an interest in a great range of occupations. Law, journalism, design, engineering, teaching, architecture, aviation and interior decorating were some of the interests represented.

For Thursday, Friday, and Saturday a program of lectures, round tables and conferences has been arranged with the more serious exercises interspersed with social gatherings, sports, concerts, and the "Friday Frolic" on Friday evening. Physical examinations will be given on these days and Freshman registration will be completed by Friday.

NEW YORK NOW HAS 5 CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR

New York—(AP)—Former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright has become New York's fifth candidate for the mayoralty with the announced intention of ridding the city of "graters."

In announcing to a committee of the newly formed square deal party that he would accept the nomination, he said:

"I will rid this town of the grafters and Tammany parasites who are spending the taxpayers' money like inebriated men of the sea. I will clean up the disgraceful conditions in New York City where, with the genius of the city hall doing nothing about it, demoralization has flourished like a green bay tree."

Enright, who is a Democrat, served eight years as police commissioner under Mayor John F. Hyman. He now conducts a private detective agency.

His candidacy was looked upon by political observers as a threat to the reelection of Mayor James J. Walker, the Democratic nominee. Others seeking the mayoralty are Congressman F. H. La Guardia and William M. Bennett, who are contesting for the Republican nomination, and Norman Thomas, Socialist.

EUROPEANS NOW EMIGRATING TO BRAZILIAN PORTS

Claim South American Country Offers What U. S. Did in 1870

BY HAL E. WALKER
(Associated Press Correspondent)

Rio de Janeiro—(AP)—The tide of emigration which for decades flowed westward across the Atlantic to New York and other American ports has definitely set in a southwesterly direction.

European steamship companies are operating larger and faster steamers to South America than were the pre-war emigrant carriers of the North Atlantic, with much better accommodations. Under these conditions Brazilians believe that their country is on the verge of a great increase in population with consequent agricultural development.

IMMIGRATION NEARS EUROPE

Brazilian officials argue that by its climate, its nearness to European markets, and its vast undeveloped resources, Brazil today offers to the immigrant the promise offered by the United States half a century ago. During the century 1820 to 1920 there were 2,648,382 immigrants received in Brazil, of whom Italians numbered 1,338,381, Portuguese 1,055,154, Spaniards 510,514 and Germans 131,441. Since 1904 the largest immigration year was 1913 when 192,682 newcomers entered Brazil.

The southern states, especially Sao Paulo, Minas Geraes, Parana, Santa Catharina and Rio Grande do Sul, offer to the European climatic conditions similar to his own country.

The Federal government does not assist immigration at present, but there is an Ellis Island in the harbor of Rio-de-lana das Flores—where the newcomer is held until his final destination is decided.

WANT FARMERS

Men of able bodies and with set desires to become successful farmers are especially desired by Brazil. The immigrants of this type are welcome whether they be 16 or 60 years of age.

They will find inducements offered by the state of Rio Grande do Sul and Sao Paulo for settlement on unoccupied agricultural lands in those sections. Both state governments have set aside large tracts for homesteaders. The price per acre is low and the states are willing to sell on long term payments.

Another factor in the general movement is the absence of a literacy test. Brazil is less concerned with the fact that immigrants may not be able to read or write than with the fact that their muscles are well developed, that they are free from disabling or contagious diseases and that they have the will to work hard to improve their lot.

These will be the men to receive uneducated persons has, however, no application to Portuguese, the second most numerous nationality among the newcomers. The government of Portugal itself is responsible for this state of affairs, it having recently decreed that no illiterates may leave the home shores.

EUROPEAN UNION IS APPROVED BY FRANCE

Rambouillet, France—(AP)—Premier Briand's idea of a "United States of Europe" was approved by the French cabinet today at its first meeting since the Hague reparations conference began on Aug. 3. The meeting was held under the direction of President Doumergue and M. Briand at the presidents summer chateau.

Premier Briand in a three-hour session reviewed for his colleagues everything he had done at Geneva, including his conversations on the European confederation, and his actions were fully approved.

Minister of Finance Henri Cheron explained the financial conditions of the Young plan accord reached at the Hague, and the council discussed the weight question in France at great length, deciding on several measures to avert a crisis.

The date for the reassembling of parliament was fixed for Oct. 22, when the question of approving the Young plan will come up.

CHICAGO DEMANDS BEAUTIFUL WOMEN FOR CIVIC OPERA

Present Stars Are as Easy to Look at as They Are Pleasant to Hear

Chicago — (AP) — Chicago opera lovers like their sopranos shapely and their dancers pretty, and this year's additions to the civic opera company are intended to meet that demand.

There is Halile Stiles, a lyric soprano, who is regarded abroad as easy to look upon and pleasant to hear.

Kathleen Crofton and Barbara Bradshaw, English girls who would be far in anybody's beauty contest, are new members of the opera ballet.

Miss Stiles is a Californian, daughter of a Syracuse university professor. For the last three years she has been with the Opera Comique of Paris.

Miss Crofton and Miss Bradshaw were with the Pavlova ballet last year in Great Britain and on the continent. When Laurent Novikoff was engaged by the Chicago opera company as ballet master, the young women, his pupils, joined the company.

The Chicago opera season opens November 1 in the new skyscraper opera house.

The civic opera venture which reduced the skyscraper auditorium to the Chicago river skidded along for several years, always perilously near failure. That was more than a decade ago. Samuel Insull, the power magnate, eventually became chief of the trustees, and under his direction the opera attained staidity.

While the greater part of the pace in the new opera building will be taken over by offices, the auditorium is the heart. Its design and accommodations were the first consideration of the architects.

The opening night of the opera will be a social event outshining any occasion of that kind since the splendid days of the '90's when Mrs. Ter Palmer was the social center.

Easy to Look at, Too!

WOMAN DONATES 125 BOOKS TO LIBRARY

Over 125 books have been donated to the Appleton Public library by Mrs. F. E. Holbrook, 740 E. College ave., who is leaving the city. The collection includes some children books and two or three non-fiction volumes, but for the most part it is made up of fiction. The books are now being catalogued and put on the library shelves.

CONSIDER ERECTION ON SIGNAL LIGHTS

Prim Suggests Installation at Intersection of Highway 10 and 26

At the suggestion of Police Chief George T. Prim, several members of the county board are considering the feasibility of installing automatic signal lights at the intersections of Highway 10 and 26 at Leppia's Corners and also at the junction of Highway 10 and 26 at Greenville.

During the summer there have been many serious accidents at both of these corners despite the fact that arterial highway signs have been erected there.

It is pointed out by Chief Prim, however, that there are so many other traffic and advertising signs along the side of the road that many motorists do not see the arterial signs. Most of the accidents were caused by failure of motorists to stop for the arterial highways.

Sheriff Fred W. Glese, who also has noticed the large number of accidents at Leppia's Corners, said Wednesday that he intended to install a first aid kit in the De Bruin Filling station at this corner so that accident victims would receive some attention before arrival of physicians.

SHERIFFS, POLICEMEN MAY ACT AS WARDENS

Madison — (AP) — Sheriffs, deputies, and city policemen have the authority to act as game wardens in their own localities, according to an announcement by the state conservation commission.

"It should prove of great benefit to conservation wardens throughout the state to receive help from these officers, especially from deputy sheriffs, because in every county there are more deputies than there are wardens. Lack of funds has prevented the commission from maintaining a large force of wardens, said the commission announcement.

"Fish and game should henceforth receive better protection than ever before, as a result of this help from other officers. Many people have not realized that these officers could act as wardens, and this announcement from the commission is a definite statement that they will be active co-operators in enforcing the fish and game laws.

Constantinople — (AP) — E. B. Filinger, an American manufacturer, came back from Africa with word that splendid highways are being built in the Congo through the clever idea of the British and Belgians in presenting automobiles to native chiefs. Each wishes to reign as a speed king and therefore cooperates in road building.

TIDAL WAVE OF BUSINESS
The National association of Credit Men says, in its September bulletin: "The expression, 'increase over the totals of last year,' has to be used frequently in many lines of production and distribution. The full import of this fact appears only when we recall that 1928 was itself a record year in many industries."

Iron and steel production has made a new high summer record. So has automobile manufacture. These are fundamental industries. Building construction, after a mild decline, performed the miracle of picking up again during the summer, and is now going strong. Thus the supposedly "dull" season has been anything but dull. To this pleasing situation is now being added the natural increase that comes in the fall.

The country is riding on a business wave which seems to be a tidal wave. Can a tidal wave last? Can there be a crest without a trough? We never used to think so. But quoting the Credit Men's bulletin again: "It is impossible to see how business, both wholesale and retail, can suffer any serious reverse (while the underlying factors of prosperity continue on their present sound and satisfactory basis.)"

Domestically the United States has never been in better condition. Its high state of prosperity is both augmented and fortified by a constant improvement in world conditions. The working out of Europe's financial problems touching reparations, war debts and government requirements has steadily improved the economic situation abroad. This of course is reflected in our commerce and trade, and the prospect is for continued betterment throughout the world.

South America is undergoing marked development and with Europe settling down to ways of peace, coupled with production, economy and thrift, it may be said conservatively that there are no clouds on the economic horizon. This offers the prospect of continued prosperity not only for years, but indefinitely. Perhaps the greatest danger is that so favorable an outlook may lead to over-expansion. This is the thing that has to be guarded against. It is the principal danger right now in the United States. We have a marked tendency toward consolidation, absorption and extension. The public is so eager to buy securities that it puts a premium on promotional enterprises of every sort. We can go on increasing our prosperity provided we do not overdo it and ride a good horse to death.

SCHOOL DAYS
Vacation is over and parents, children and teachers all over the country have taken up the year's school work. With surprising ease and satisfaction they will sink back into the familiar routine.

Parents who want the school year to be of full value to their children will make more preparation than merely attending to the cleanliness of hands and faces in the morning. During the summer such parents have had children's teeth and eyes examined and any defects corrected. They have put the family on a regular schedule which provides particularly for the health of the school children. That means plenty of sleep every night, beginning at eight o'clock, eight-thirty or nine, according to the age of the child. It means rising in time to eat a wholesome, nourishing breakfast. Minds can tackle arithmetic and other school problems better when bodies are properly fed.

Then there will be a suitable place for those with home work to do their studying. It will be away from the rest of the family and away from the radio. And there will be ample time for outdoor recreation and fun. Going to school is a real job for a child. Father and mother know how hard it is to do their own work well under unsatisfactory conditions. It is just as hard for the youngsters. Give them their chance to health and success in these important school years.

ARISTOCRATS OF THE AIR

The recent National Air Races were instructive as well as spectacular. One of the most impressive things about them, however, was a thing that most of the spectators hardly noticed. Each day, while dozens of army and navy planes were performing hair-raising stunts in front of the crowded grandstands, with scores of other planes waiting, on the ground, for their turn to go up and make some new thrills, there was a steady stream of planes taking off and landing on a remote section of the airport, away from the crowds.

These planes came and went without making any fuss. Nobody gathered around to watch them. No excited spectators mobbed their pilots to ask for autographs. No photographers made life miserable for them with clicking cameras. These planes weren't taking part in the great exhibition that had drawn the crowds. They were just the airmail planes—leaving the airport, day and night, for distant points, just as they had been doing for months before. They weren't in the show at all. Yet it is a question whether any part of that spectacular exhibition was quite as impressive as the sight of these airmail ships, leaving and arriving on regular schedule, in a vacant field behind the place reserved for the dare-devils.

The races were a great show. Lindbergh, Williams, Doolittle and others did things with airplanes that were positively incredible. The finest pilots of the army, navy and marine corps went through complicated maneuvers with amazing skill. Three Canadian officers came down and made 50,000 spectators gasp with their consummate skill and daring. All of this was valuable. It surely proved that the airplane is a pretty reliable proposition, to say the least.

But the men who did not get the applause—the airmail pilots—to our notion, were the men who were really proving the airplane's worth. Every hour of the day and night one or another was taking off on his regular round. One man would head East for the perilous climb over the Alleghenies. Another would point the nose of his plane for Buffalo and Albany. Another would swing South to the Ohio river valley; another would head West for Chicago, carrying a cargo that would be on the Pacific coast 36 hours later. Every day and every night through the coming fall and winter these men will be doing the same thing. While we are safe in our homes, on bitter stormy nights, they will be soaring alone through the darkness to carry the mail. Once in a great while one of them will be killed. They did not get any medals or big headlines at the air races, and they won't get any now; but they are doing more for aviation than all the dare-devils put together. The airmail men, in short, and not the stunters, are the real aristocrats of the air. The big job is not always done by the chap who gets the most glory.

AIRPLANE IMPROVEMENTS

Lieut. Mamer, who flew in the Sun God in its remarkable transcontinental flight, says "the producers of aircraft have neared the point of airplane perfection in motors as well as planes." It does seem so, in view of the many recent triumphs. Planes and dirigibles both have proved their stability and endurance. Often now it is the man, not the machine, that wears out.

Yet there are still obvious opportunities for improvement, known to any observer. There is too much danger and difficulty still in taking off and landing. If airplanes are ever to come into general use for individuals, they must be capable of "landing on a dime." They must take up little room. They must rise straight up or drop straight down, or poise like a hummingbird. This evidently means the addition or substitution of the helicopter principle, instead of sole dependence on rigid wings. Some progress has been made in this direction, but the problem is still far from solution.

There are 30 communities beside Chicago in Cook county, one of them, Oak Park, with 260,000 population, and another, Cicero, over 150,000.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—It cost only $2.55 to send a letter around the world on the Graf Zeppelin. But an envelope with the cachet "First Round the World Flight: Graf Zeppelin," twice the size of a silver dollar, is worth a lot more to a stamp collector. In a Fifth Avenue window of the Plaza Trust company there was placed on exhibition one of three envelopes started around the world in the dirigible's mail pouches by Henry Behrens, an accountant.

Behrens, a native of Hanover, Germany, went to Lakehurst to post his three letters. Two he addressed to himself; one to a mythical name at a real address in Tokyo, with a return card in the corner of the cover. As an extra precaution against neighbors "souveniring" the envelopes from his mail box, he wrote the superintendent of the branch post office that served his house to hold the envelopes for the safe for him. The day after the Graf returned he called and got the two that circled the globe. The one mailed to Tokyo, he hopes, will be returned by steamer.

MORGAN YACHT

If this column can be allowed another reference to J. P. Morgan, it will hasten to report on the financier as a yachtsman. "This said that his 'Corsair,' which led a fleet of submarine chasers in the Bay of Biscay during the war, is being replaced by a bigger and finer boat, not because Mr. Morgan wanted to give it up, but because the ship's master, Captain Porter, wanted the new craft.

The new yacht, also to be called 'Corsair,' will be 343 feet long and 42 feet wide, the biggest in the world; will have steam turbine power because the banker has a fondness for steam, just as some old salts preferred sails, and probably will be launched at Bath, Me., in January. It will not be ready for a cruise, however, until some time in the fall of 1930. Although construction details are kept secret, a report comes that there will be only six state-of-the-art yachts in the world, indicating lots of deck space. The old yacht, after 30 years of private service, goes to the government's geodetic survey.

The Mediterranean is Mr. Morgan's favorite sea. It is said that since Mrs. Morgan died he usually has cruised alone, except for the crew, the other members of the family not yet having gone in for leisurely voyaging.

WALKERS' FREEER GROUND

With all the current alms-mindness about them, Mayor Walker has flown only once and his wife but twice.

Neither care for personal aviation. Mrs. Walker made her first flight with her mother three or four years ago, taking the cloud route from London to Paris, a three-hour trip that made her ill.

The second time was when she visited the Ford factory in Detroit. Invited to ride in one of the planes, she did so out of courtesy, but recalled her previous experience.

After she alighted, 20 minutes later, the pilot said: "Now, Mrs. Walker, wasn't that better than your first flight?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Jimmy, "two hours and 40 minutes better."

PROHIBITION PARTY
On Sept. 12, 1895, the National Prohibition party was organized at a convention in Chicago. The new party was the result of the failure of advocates of temperance to force a prohibition plank upon either of the great national parties.

In the state elections of the next three years candidates were nominated by the party, but received relatively few votes. The national convention met in Columbus, O., Feb. 22, 1897, and nominated James Black of Pennsylvania and John Russell of Michigan as prohibition candidates for president and vice president respectively.

The convention adopted a platform which, besides advocating prohibition, declared for woman suffrage, a direct popular vote for president and vice president; a sound currency, the encouragement of immigration and a reduction of transportation rates.

In the ensuing election, the party's candidates received only 5,607 votes. The organ of the Prohibition party, the Voice, was published Sept. 25, 1894, and published in Chicago.

THE HARD OF HEARING NEED NOT BE DUMB

It is well known that most mutes are born totally deaf, not hard of hearing. That is why they cannot learn to talk—they cannot hear words and hence cannot utter them. But that is not the kind of dumbness I am thinking of. I mean dumb in the vernacular. How very dumb the hard of hearing are, one may judge by a glance at a little pamphlet published ten or fifteen years ago by the American Medical association, Chicago, Ill. It is all about "Deafness Cures" and gives you inside information on ten of the foremost fakes in the field. If the reader of this column is hard of hearing and interested in any such article or remedy, I earnestly advise him to look over this little pamphlet (which costs a dime, I think) before he signs his name on the dotted line and so assures for himself an eternal place on the sucker list.

As a matter of fact, I do not think the hard of hearing are at all lacking in intelligence. On the contrary, I'm rather hard of hearing myself. But what I mean by the dumbness of a great many persons with defective hearing is the way they bite on these mail order swindles that purport to cure deafness or restore hearing.

They should read Emerson, these partially deaf duffers. Not that I have read the old boy, the I have earnestly tried to do so. Only I harbor a vague notion that it was none other than Ralph Waldo who composed that little paragraph about the world beating a path to the door of the chap who invents a better mousetrap or something like that. Well, now, bearing in mind that I am plenty deaf enough to be as dumb as the next duffer, and so I have looked into this deafness cure isn't it fair and reasonable to assume that if "Specialist Fowl" or "Dr. Trimmer" really has a remedy, treatment or appliance that helps deafness, great numbers of deaf folk will storm his headquarters for his help, just on the word of their deaf friends—who have tried Fowl or Trimmer and found him worth the trouble? Would Fowl or Trimmer be compelled to spend thousands of dollars annually in order to convince prospective deaf folk of the efficacy of the thing offered to help deafness?

There are signs and portents, the feeble ones, I fear, that an awakening of public conscience is coming and federal authorities are going to try to clean up some of the noisome fraud and deceit that the government has long countenanced in these contemptible medical swindles. In various cities there are now regularly organized societies to bring deaf people together and to help them help each other. Look up the League for the Hard of Hearing in your town if you are seeking such counsel or aid.

THE GARBAGE DISPOSAL PROBLEM
Editor Post-Crescent—As I said before in my previous article during my travels in the past three years, I visited many cities the size of Appleton.

I made inquiries relative to how they handle this most difficult, and important problem. I found as many different methods as I found cities, many were doing as we are, nothing. It is a great and difficult problem in cities of this size to solve. The cities are not a large enough taxing body to provide themselves with an up-to-date garbage disposal plant. The cost is prohibitive and most cities are in the same boat we are. The budget is taken up in other things some of them not as important as this great problem from the standpoint of health and cleanliness and sanitation.

I am informed that because we are not doing anything about this thing was the greatest mark against us in the Better City's Contest conducted by the Chamber of Commerce a few years ago. I was particularly interested in a method being carried out in a city of this size in Pennsylvania. This is the plan and I think it is a good one

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Less than a year ago she was beginning nervously to think of some other possible means of livelihood than the movies. The New York stars were coming to Hollywood in droves, and what could a mere movie actress hope to do in the talkies?

Jean Arthur's fears were like those of many another "mere movie actress" in a Hollywood which changed uncertainly on the brink of oblivion as Broadway's hosts made triumphant challenge.

Nor were her fears entirely groundless. To tell the awful truth, Jean Arthur, after some four years of movie struggling actually received a kindly notice that there was little chance her contract would be renewed. The talkies had "got" her.

But, as the subtitles used to say, came a championing hero from the same New York which was sending its stage favorites to gather the talkie fruits, a hero to slay, for Jean Arthur as for several others, this dragon of talk.

John Cromwell, noted Broadway director, could see no reason why a young lady who had been able to express herself since childhood could not continue to do so before a microphone. And microphone tests proved he was right. Jean Arthur has stayed on at the same studio, with better and better parts. She has a low-pitched, musical voice, which registers like the proverbial million.

SHE'D LIKE TO SING
"Now I wish I could sing, too, just for fun," she says mischievously. But there isn't any spite in her make-up—she's too grateful.

Jean Arthur came to Hollywood about five years ago, a young kid who believed she could step into the movies and slay the reigning queens overnight, just because her beauty as a model in the east had won a contract.

She worked a year in comedies before she got her "big chance," the leading role in a special. Keyed up for overnight success, she flopped. Timing and spacing and other tricks of the acting trade meant nothing to her. And it was quite a blow when she was dropped from the cast and sent into the ignominy of more comedies and westerns. Shortly afterward her name was dropped from the contract list. Which little incident made up her mind to show 'em.

A LESSON

"It would make a more interesting story if I had won fame overnight in that picture, but as it is I've learned a whole lot more," she says. Jean, by the way, now is a blond. Her hair used to be "mouse-colored," she says, and had no highlights on the screen. Then, too, she resembled Mary Pickford, and resembling another player is fatal to an actress, even if the two are very good friends and mutual admirers. For the sake of individuality, the deed was done.

THINK NAVAL ACCORD WITH ENGLAND NEAR

Revision of American Position Is Expected This Weekend

Washington—(P)—A revision of the American position on disarmament facilitating an agreement with Great Britain and bringing such an accord very near is believed to have resulted from a protracted series of conferences between President Hoover, Secretary Stimson, Secretary Adams and the general board of the navy.

Information from an authoritative source was that Ambassador Davies had been kept advised of the trend of discussions, which yesterday filled most of the day and evening. In addition, it is confidently expected that in the near future, perhaps within the next 24 hours, new instructions will go forward to Mr. Davies or presentation to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Indications were that the president's conferences had to do with an adjustment of the 15-cruiser contribution of tonnage, gun-power and other elements, to conform with the wishes of the London government.

The impression has prevailed in naval and diplomatic circles in Washington that a rebalancing of the cruiser program might be effective in bringing closer the positions of the United States and Great Britain on the naval questions.

During the past week the American naval experts have been engaged in a study of a possible shifting of the various elements which enter into a naval program such as contemplated under the 15-cruiser law.

Naval circles have pointed out that the factors in this program in addition to tonnage involve speed, armor, gun-power and other technical and intricate phases. Certain schools of thought are known to exist in the navy and also in diplomatic circles in Washington that believe that a shifting of one or more of these elements, or basic factors, might well pave the way for the basis of a naval understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

President Hoover has already declared himself in favor of a policy of naval reduction instead of one of mere limitation, insofar as auxiliary vessels are concerned. Parity, or at least equality, has already been agreed upon between Great Britain and the United States as a basis of discussion of the naval program. In order to meet the situation, well-informed circles consider it possible that a revision of the "paper program" of the American navy might be called for to meet the existing desires of President Hoover for a stringent limitation or reduction, giving at the same time a basic parity with Great Britain.

The reduction policy, with its accompanying desire by the president to cut taxes for naval expenditure, is one of the president's most intimate desires and throughout the present negotiations, it is known that he has steadfastly worked toward this end.

ENGLAND RESERVED

London—(P)—Highly important developments in Anglo-American disarmament negotiations are expected here within 48 hours, according to well-informed circles. By that time the American reply to Great Britain's naval disarmament proposals will be in Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's hands. The nature of this reply will largely determine whether the labor leader will leave for Washington on Sept. 23, or whether his visit will have to be postponed until a much later date.

Extreme reserve continues to be maintained on this side of the Atlantic regarding the Anglo-American negotiations. It is understood, however, that British proposals postulate a minimum cruiser tonnage of 340,000 tons. It is understood that the reaction of the American government to these proposals, which is expected to be outlined in the reply Downing-st hopes to receive before the weekend, will have important bearing on the naval power discussions. It is considered in authoritative quarters as extremely unlikely that Prime Minister MacDonald would go to Washington immediately unless agreement in principle had been reached.

Flashes of Life

Stamford, Conn.—(P)—Dr. William T. Hornaday, director emeritus of New York's zoo, has been married to years and disagrees with Prof. R. F. Rogers of Massachusetts Tech, who thinks that women teachers are feminizing American youth. On his gold wedding day Dr. Hornaday remarked: "I don't think the American man is going to be feminized by his wife. If he selects the right wife the more he listens to her advice the better off he is." Mr. Hornaday married a teacher, Miss Josephine Chamberlain of Battle Creek, Mich.

Belfast, Northern Ireland—(P)—Mary Ann Doherty, mother of seven, has been arrested for smuggling poteen from the free state. A belt around her waist was fitted with pockets containing bottles.

Newport, R. I.—Mrs. Muriel Van derbilt Church is to show her horses west this fall, visiting Seattle, Portland, Ore., Kansas City, Wichita, Kansas, and Chicago.

Nice, France—Casinos are out of luck with rubber checks representing losses at roulette and the like. One Madame Picolo dropped 30,000 francs at Boule. Her paper-bounced bank labeled "no funds." A verdict in favor of the Casino was upset on appeal because of a law that no gambling debt may be collected legally.

Bagdad—Brigadier General Sir Gilbert Clayton, high commissioner for Iraq, has died virtually with his boots on. He collapsed after playing polo. He was 54.

London—R. B. Kerr of London thinks that old mads are the world's most precious possession. They have devoted to humanitarian projects the

BLAME FOOD OR WATER FOR DEATH OF FAMILY

Milwaukee—(P)—Although physicians today still were without complete information concerning the poison caused the death of David Tyrell, 4, Milwaukee, they had learned enough to enable them to save the lives of four others in his family.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley V. Tyrell and two other children were believed to be out of danger. Contaminated food or impure water is believed responsible for the illness and death, but this will not be known definitely until the results of an autopsy on the child's body are announced Saturday.

energy that otherwise would have been expended on house and family, he told the International Congress of the World League for Sexual Reform.

Atlanta—From back in the mountains United States Marshal Crawford has received this letter: "I noticed an ad in my county paper where the government was wanting some good whiskey made. Could you give me any information about it? If so please write me. I might be interested in it."

London—In Hampton court place a vine 161 years old in a glass enclosure is bearing some 500 bunches of grapes. The stem has a girth of six feet eight inches at the base. It costs two cents to see the vine and $1.25 for a bunch of grapes plus a quarter for a basket made by blind war veterans.

Westfield, Mass.—Charles H. Bartlett, 70, has made three holes in one in 15 years, and he can sink a golf ball 135 yards with a mashie. That's the latest tee shot he holed.

BLAME POLITICS, GANGS FOR MURDER

Precinct Captain for Alderman Crowe Killed in Automobile

Chicago—(P)—Gang murder, with a background of politics, confronted police today in the death of Charles S. Brown, 25-year-old precinct captain for Alderman Dorsey Crowe of the 42nd ward.

Brown, dying from four bullet wounds in the head, was pitched into the street from a curtained automobile as with lights out, it purred through the "foaming fifties" south side beer battleground, last night. His hands had been bound behind him with wire, and he had been robbed.

Police immediately sought to fit the crime into the jigsaw puzzle of the past month's slayings. They saw in Brown's death possible reprisal for the slaying Sept. 1 of Henry Connors in a gun fight at the C. and O. cabaret on N. Clark-st.

Connors was a precinct captain for Richard E. Prendergast, who unsuccessfully opposed Dorsey Crowe for 42nd ward alderman in the last election. The Crowe-Prendergast campaign was electric with action, being marked by sluggings, fist fights and shootings. Connors was active in promoting Prendergast's interests at that time, while Brown worked in the ranks of Alderman Crowe.

John Stege, deputy commissioner of police, agreed with members of the homicide squad that Brown's death quite probably was in retaliation for the slaying of Connors. He sent squads into the 42nd ward with

NEW PERSONNEL BOARD TO DISCUSS SALARIES

Madison—(P)—First action of the new state personnel board, in charge of all state employees, will follow a series of conferences on salaries, starting Wednesday.

The new board, which, during the present terms of the civil service commissioners, will be constituted by them, and A. E. Garey, examining secretary for the commission and now personnel director, sits Wednesday in public session to discuss with department heads and office workers if they desire the salary ranges for various positions in the classified service.

It is the duty of the board to recommend to the legislature biennially revisions or increases in salary for the state workers.

orders to arrest any known enemies of the slain man.

Four persons were found who heard the shots fired that killed Brown. They also told of seeing him tossed from the car. Police believe Brown was forced to lie face down on the floor of the sedan and that he was shot in that position.

In Brown's pocket was found a note signed by Alderman Crowe notifying Brown of a meeting of precinct captains and telling him to arrange his affairs "so that nothing will interfere with your attending."

STATE SCHOOLS TO HAVE MEDICAL KITS

Madison—(P)—Each Wisconsin school will soon be equipped with a first aid medical kit, under the 1929 legislature's laws. The state superintendent of public instruction has sent a letter to all schools with recommendations for standard equipment in the kit. The one-room schools are expected to buy small kits for around $4.00 while larger schools of the consolidated type and high schools may pay up to $15 for their emergency kits.

A charmingly lovely printed silk crepe in rust tones with matching shade sheer velvet bow placed at end of becoming diagonal neckline. It is distinguished by slender hipline with scalloped yoke which fits the figure snugly, and places the double circular flounces of skirt quite low, which makes it so suitable for woman of average full figure.

Style No. 2746 is refreshingly new silhouette that will make you appear in the "know" of fashion. It's youthful and feminine too which makes it doubly attractive. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is an excellent model for the use of the two surfaces of crepe satin and especially smart in black which is highlighted for fall wear, and so appropriate for immediate wear. Cut the entire dress of the full surface with exception of hip yoke, lower circular tier and neckline bow, which reveal the shiny surface.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XVII
I WANT to know where she is," Sue answered, sitting down on the other chair. "I want her on business."

"She paid every bill she ever made. I know that for sure. It was one of Sarah's weaknesses. She thought she had to be honest and do her duty and the world didn't appreciate her and reward her. That is why she went away."

"Tell me what you know about her," Sue begged. "It really is awfully important."

"Well, she had an eccentric old uncle. Did you ever hear of Frederick Slade? Frederick didn't like his orphaned niece because she was too easy and so she taught school until they raised the requirements and you had to know more than where to place Tokio and Belgrade on red and green maps. Frederick wouldn't give her the money to learn so she started to clerk. I hear he died the other day, didn't he? Has his will been filed?"

"It seems to me he did die. Did he really have any money?" Sue asked. "He looked poor." She would say nothing until she knew. Even then she would hold the information until Jack told it. After all, it was Jack, not the judge, whom she wanted to impress.

"Rich as could be but so tight his shoes squeaked. I have met him. But what can I tell Sarah for you?"

"Nothing. I have to see her for myself."

"I'm sorry. She never sees anyone any more. You see Sarah passed out of this give-and-take, mostly-give, existence, and has lived happier ever since."

"You mean she's dead?" Even this would be news, Sue decided.

"Oh no, she's feeling fine, thank you, but she's changed."

"But how can I find her?"

"You can't!" Then as she saw the wonder in the other's eyes.

"But I'll do just as well, much better, really. But hurry up because I'm due at work pretty soon."

"Where do you work?" Sue asked more to keep the girl interested until she thought of a plan than to secure the information.

"I wait table and fill salt cellars at the Green Tree Inn, north of town."

"I know now! You're the girl who gave me a nickel last night!" Sue let her round black leather pocketbook roll across the floor in her surprise. Then she picked it up, opened it, and laid a coin on the table. "I could say I came to pay my debts, couldn't I? Sort of a surprise for you."

"That old story passed away with hair ribbons," the auburn-haired girl answered. "I recognize you, too, now. Was your call successful?"

Sue noticed the change in her voice, the quietness that suddenly came into her manner.

"You don't seem like a typical waitress at all," she said.

"An imitation one? Perhaps I am. If you'll forgive me, kimono—I'm not dressed for visitors, you know. I really believe I'll introduce you to Sarah herself."

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites jumped out of their car and Clowny said, "Well, here we are. I'm ready for a nice long rest in the open space. We've driven plenty far enough o'er roads that really seemed quite rough. All we have found is some old house. It's been a crazy race."

"Now, wait a minute," Coppy said. "I'll tell you frankly, we are fed up on your constant kicking. Why not take whatever comes? You know that we have had good luck. Our car at no time has been stuck. I feel we shouldn't kick as long as our old engine hums."

"When we have rested here a while, we'll travel for another mile or so and then who knows what we may find not far away? The sun is shining very bright and everything looks quite all right. You make our trips seem just like work instead of wondrous play."

Then Scouty said, "Oh, come, let's stop this argument. Please let it drop. I'm going to the little house and knock upon the door. If someone's there they'll answer me. Perhaps a kind friend we shall see. I'm anxious now to find what the house was built here for."

Up to the door he promptly ran. "I hope," said he, "I find a man who'll tell us all about this place and let us stay a spell. Perhaps he'll give us food to eat. That would be just the proper treat. And yet, there may be no one here. Of course we cannot tell."

As Scouty rapped, the others stood and kept as quiet as they could. He rapped again and then the door swung open very wide. A funny looking man stood there. He waved his arms out through the air. "Hello there, little Tynmites. 'You're welcome here," he cried.

(The Tynmites become acquainted with their new friend in the next story.)

RADIO BOARD WON'T HOLD HEARINGS ON 350 APPLICATIONS

Drastic Change Is Made in Order to Assure Completion of Work

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press

Washington — Seeking to dispose of approximately 350 applications which hearings are scheduled with the next three and a half months, the federal radio commission has announced a drastic change in policy whereby hearings before the entire commission have been abolished. A hearings committee has been set up within the commission composed of Commissioner Sykes and Commissioner LaFount and hereafter all hearings will be held before one of these members or "probably," according to the commissioner order, before a special examiner selected from the commission's staff for this purpose.

Existing law provides for the execution of the terms of all of the present commissioners and for cessation of the commission's licensing and other administrative functions on Dec. 31. While it is regarded as probable that congress will decide to terminate the life of the commission as an administrative body, there is a desire on the part of the present membership that all pending business be disposed of before Dec. 31. At the event the administrative life of the commission is not extended, the commission is expected to desire to have a clean slate to turn over to the radio division of a department of commerce, which will then take over the licensing authority and similar duties now exercised by the commission.

In addition to the increased efficiency which is expected to result from the new policy, another effect that applicants for licenses and construction permits will now be required to present their cases in such a manner as to convince one man of their importance.

FAVOR IS ABOLISHED
The possibility of applicants relying upon the favor of one or two commissioners who might be particularly sympathetic to the interests of their own zones, has been removed.

Adoption of the new policy is in line with recommendations made by a United States Bureau of Efficiency. Besides changing its policy with respect to hearings, the commission has adopted a new allocation of work by creating four divisions, each headed by a commissioner. Commissioner Sykes heads the technical division and will have general supervision over legal policies, activities and conduct of litigation. He will act after consultation with a general consul of the commission.

The engineering division is headed by Commissioner Saltzman, who, in collaboration with the chief engineer, will direct the technical activities. Commissioner LaFount has been assigned to head the division of field investigations which includes

Washington — (AP) — With discreetly bobbing balloons and an orchestra with the blare cut out, Washington's exclusive night club, Le Boheme, will open October 21. It will be the first of a series of 10 soirees. Debutantes will dance new steps carefully selected for Washington society. For Washington, city of historic tradition and dignity of government, must have its amusements carefully planned. The average night club with its moaning saxophones and stereotyped entertainment is received with elevated eyebrows. Social Washington wants its pep and fun, but it must be mellowed pep, fun with the rough edges rubbed off. So Le Club Boheme, which has been operating successfully for

YOUNG DRY INFORMER AROUSES JUDGE'S ire

Memphis, Tenn. — (AP) — Testimony of an 18-year-old informer that he purchased liquor and drank it in an alley to get evidence has aroused the ire of Federal Judge Harry D. Anderson and he denounced the incident as a "disgrace."

Hadley Strange was testifying against Harry Langley and Elmer Robb, charged with selling liquor. He said he and six men bought liquor at an inn here and drank it at a table in an alley way. The judge asked his age and upon learning it, addressed the court room.

"It is a shame for the United States government to hire boys like this and send them into alleys to drink whiskey with bums. It is a disgrace." Strange said he attended school in winter and worked as an informer in the summer. He said the occasion mentioned was the only one in which the duties led him to drink liquor. Attorneys for the defense produced records of the commission's hearing in which Strange testified he had tasted liquor many times in connection with his work.

"But there is a difference in tasting and drinking liquor," the youth said. The court sustained him.

supervision over inquiries made by the commission in various parts of the country and legal matters arising from such work. The other division, headed by Commissioner Starbuck, is to act as the liaison agency of the commission. It will be the point of contact with other governmental and quasi-public bodies. Commissioner Starbuck will represent the commission at meetings with the interdepartmental radio advisory committee, the interdepartmental committee for coordination of activities in aid of aviation, the airways division of the bureau of lighthouses, the army signal corps, the division of naval communications, and similar bodies. He will maintain contact with proposals for international conferences and conventions relating to radio communications.

MORE OFFICES GET AXE AS GOVERNOR PUTS NAME ON BILL

Agricultural Consolidation Measure Wipes Out Several Boards

Madison — (AP) — With the governor's announcement of his signature of the Smith department of agriculture consolidation bill, his office gave out this statement:

"This bill accomplishes one of the major consolidations recommended by Gov. Kohler in his message to the legislature for the purpose of securing greater efficiency and centralized responsibility in state government. The bill establishing the position of budget director creating a new full-time high-level commission and the centralized purchasing bureau and department of engineering bills, have already become law. The last of the bills recommended by the governor, consolidating the investment of state trust funds under a new investment board has passed and will be on the governor's desk in a few days."

Under the bill, the offices of O. A. Stolen, state humane agent, and Emil Praden, state treasury agent, are abolished, although the new unified department of agriculture may decide to continue the functions of their offices with them in charge of the work. The boards in charge of livestock sanitation, the state fair, and the examination of veterinarians, are also abolished, and members of these groups, little heard of in the state administration, lose their identity with the government.

X-RAY BECOMES TOOL OF METAL INDUSTRY

Cleveland — (AP) — The X-ray, an instrument of physicians and surgeons, has become a tool of the foundry room and its benefits to the metal industry have been of considerable aid to manufacturing, notably in aviation, according to the statement of W. L. Fink, metallurgist, before the National Metals Congress in session here today.

Aviation has been furthered and made safer, Fink told the American society for Steel Treatment, through the revelation of defects in metals by X-ray machines. The equipment is the same as that used in the medical profession, he said. The shadowgraphs of the X-ray show shrinkage, blow holes, pin hole porosity and other imperfections in castings which never would be discovered by other means of examination, he asserted. As a consequence, the metal frames of airplanes can be thoroughly tested before construction of the plane is completed, a safety device that would be available in no other way.

By the same means castings generally have been improved, Fink declared.

New Haven — (AP) — The four-room apartment in which John Coolidge will occupy with his bride has the approval of his mother. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge visited it with Miss Florence Trumbull, her son's fiancée, and Mrs. Trumbull, wife of the governor of Connecticut. "I am pleased with it," she remarked. After inspection of the $78 a-month apartment the two mothers and the young lady who will become Mrs. Coolidge on Sept. 23 went to a furniture store and looked at various pieces that might be suitable for the apartment. Nothing definite was selected.

BALTIMORE OPENS ITS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Baltimore—(AP)—Baltimore today begins a four day celebration of its 200th birthday. Today is a legal holiday in Maryland (Defenders Day) the anniversary of the successful defense of Baltimore at Fort M'Henry in 1814 and schools as well as all public and many commercial institutions are closed.

The navy has sent the battleship New York and the cruiser Memphis to take part in the celebration. Two batteries of the Sixth Field artillery and a squadron of the Third cavalry from Fort Meyer, Va., have been ordered to Baltimore for the occasion by the army.

The air services of the army and navy are represented by a fleet of pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., and bombers from Langley Field, Va. Troops and planes have also been detailed from the Quantico marine base.

The formal opening of the celebration was at noon at the city hall when Lord Baltimore, the lower bell was tolled 200 times. With the last peal the invocation was pronounced, followed by the official opening of the bi-centennial by Mayor William F. Broening.

Chemist Makes Gasoline And Oil By Electricity

Minneapolis—(AP)—A new way of making gasoline and oil by electricity was exhibited to the American Chemical society today.

The discovery is the work of two University of Minnesota chemists, Prof. S. C. Lind and Dr. George Glockler. Simply by switching an electrical current through "wild gas" that escapes from oil wells they convert it into gasoline or oil. The new process gets away from the use of fire or heat, heretofore an almost universal need of manufacturing. The electrified gas has the same temperature as that of the room in which it is worked.

Gas is kept flowing slowly through an apparatus which in principle is not unlike a kitchen cooker. It is a glass container, wrapped with black electrical tape and carrying an inner tube that conducts electricity. A current of small power, but with a speed of 1,800 volts is turned on, and oil or gasoline gathers at the bottom, in proportions of about one quart from eight gallons of gas. The process has been used successfully on five kinds of gas from petroleum wells. The professor said there is a possibility that some oils may be made more cheaply than by present methods, but that he does not see a prospect of using electricity to make cheaper gasoline. The National Petroleum association sponsors the research.

A table that has been bothering chemists in many branches of manufacture was solved by Prof. Lind in another report. He has made phosphene, one of the poison gases of the world war, merely by turning light upon carbon monoxide and chlorine. The light caused the two gases to combine into phosphene. He substituted radium rays for the light and again obtained phosphene.

Chemists have been in doubt as to how the change into phosphene took place. Dr. Lind showed that it was like setting up a row of dominoes and knocking down the first one, causing the whole row to tip over, one after the other. He demonstrated that the molecules of chlorine acted like the dominoes. When the light knocked over one, the others all went down and because of their changed positions, the two gases combined to form phosphene.

The point of importance to commercial chemists came when they learned that radium substituted for light produced the same result. It meant that they do not need to

CHICAGOAN DECLARED FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

Madrid—(AP)—The newspaper El Debate today said J. Becker Dee, Chicago banker, had been declared a fugitive from justice, and that police had been given orders to apprehend him if possible. His bail of 12,000 pesetas ($240.) was said to have been forfeited.

He recently was accused of attempting to steal a valuable porcelain plaque from the museum at the Escorial palace. He contended his act was merely in jest and he was released on bail with the promise to return for trial. He left Spain and later was reported from Paris, as returning to the United States with the expressed intention of avoiding trial. Despoliation of the art museums in Spain constitutes a serious offense, but it was felt Dee might have received a light sentence or even freed with the court's admonition and a light fine.

stick to one kind of knocker, but that anything which will bowl over one molecule will do the trick, so that they are now encouraged to prowl around in their experiments looking for better and cheaper ways to knock over number one molecules. The principle applies to numerous chemical industries.

SUBPOENA 10 WITNESSES IN MOB FLOGGING

State Determined to Identify Persons Responsible for Kidnaping

Charlotte, N. C. —(AP)— Ten persons, including Ben Wells, organizer for the National Textile Workers' union, and the two other victims of mob violence in several North Carolina textile centers last Monday night, were under subpoena to appear today before Judge Thomas J. Shaw in furtherance of the state's effort to identify members of the mob responsible for the flogging of Wells and the kidnaping of his union associates.

Judge Shaw, presiding over superior courts of Mecklenburg and Gaston-counties, included in the path of the mob of several hundred men who traveled in a caravan of automobiles, instituted an investigation in lieu of a grand jury which could not be called for three weeks.

The judge put a sheriff at the disposal of Solicitor John G. Carpenter of the local district, directing that all available witnesses be summoned and examined in open court with himself sitting as a magistrate. Governor O. Max Gardner previously had ordered the solicitor to spare no efforts in investigating the flogging and kidnapings, and also the mob raids upon communists and union headquarters at Gastonia, Bessemer City and Charlotte, where literature was destroyed.

Well, who is a British subject, was kidnaped from his boarding house at Gastonia by a small part of the mob, carried into another county and flogged, while the two union strikers, C. M. Lell, and C. D. Saylor, were kidnaped, but released when other persons appeared on the lonely road where automobiles of the mob were parked.

CLIMAX TO MISTRIAL

The violence followed declaring of a mistrial Monday in the case of 16 union leaders and strikers charged with playing Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia during disorders of the recent textile strike.

It is the purpose of Judge Shaw to identify members of the mob. Witnesses ordered to appear. In addition to the principals, included Sam J. Lartis, and W. J. Allison, Charlotte policemen; Mrs. Helen Lodge, Perry Lodge and a Mrs. Franks of Gastonia, and Frany Fry and R. B. McDonald, Cabarrus-county farmers, who fled from the kidnapers of the three men.

Mrs. Lodge, Perry Lodge and Mrs. Franks were summoned to relate activities of the mob at Mrs. Lodge's boarding house in Gastonia, from which the three men were taken.

Efforts were made yesterday to have the hearing begin immediately, but the condition of Wells, who still is suffering effects of the flogging, was such that physicians refused to allow him to leave his room in a local hotel.

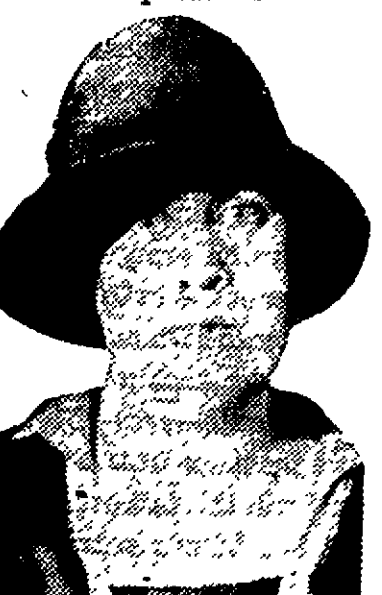

Solicitor Carpenter will remain in charge of the investigation with the full support of Governor O. Max Gardner. The governor said that unless Mr. Carpenter desired to withdraw, there would be no change in prosecutors.

The governor's statement followed charges of union officials that Mr. Carpenter and Major A. J. Bulwinkle who has been assisting in the prosecution of the 16 charged with the killing Aderholt, were leaders of the mob.

The governor, from his office in Raleigh, asserted the charges were without foundation.

"IF I HAD ONLY TAKEN KONJOLA IN FIRST PLACE"

Lady Relates How New Medicine Ended Severe Complications

MRS. MARY SELLER

"If I had only taken Konjola in the first place, what days of suffering it would have saved me," said Mrs. Mary Seller, 1506 South Tenth street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "I was the victim of severe complications, including rheumatism, neuritis, stomach and kidney trouble. My body was racked by aches and pains. I became weak and rundown in general.

"I started Konjola, and to my surprise found it to be the right medicine to help me. Week by week my improvement was increased, and soon I was free of rheumatism and neuritis and my stomach and kidneys were as sound as a new dollar. I have greater energy and pep. My nerves are quiet and calm. This splendid change is all due to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, and at all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Canora, Sask. —(AP)— Three score men and women Doukhobors were under jail sentence today for holding another nude parade. Thirty-seven children among the paraders were held for the child welfare bureau.

Cubs, Athletics Need Four More Games To Cop Flags

BUCS, GIANTS IN FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE POSITIONS

Red Lucas Wins 18th Game as Cincinnati Beats Robins 4 and 2

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANOTHER day of campaigning along the fast-crumbing major league fronts resulted all to the favor of the front runners in need of only four victories to clinch the championship. In the American league the Athletics clipped the White Sox by 7 to 4 as the Browns whitewashed the Yankees by 5 to 0. The National league battling saw the Cubs come home in front of the Phillies by 5 to 2, with the Giants defeating the Pirates by 2 to 1 and 10 to 5.

Of even more interest than the progress of the leaders was the opening of John McGraw's hand-to-hand fight with the Dreyfus Dragons for possession of second place, which he has failed to win the pennant. The double triumph reduced the Buccanier second-place margin to four and one-half games with two more to go against the Giants.

GRIMES LOSES AGAIN

The first game at Pittsburgh yesterday marked the sixth defeat of the season for the veteran, Earl Grimes, who now has lost 10 straight to the Giants after almost two years of uninterrupted success.

The contest at Wrigley Field was enlivened by home runs, Klein and Hurst reached Neft for the circuit in the fourth, Klein's drive was his thirty-eighth, but Hack Wilson matched it in an inning later to continue his tie with the Philadelphia. Stephenson and Tolson "rounded out the home-run club.

Red Lucas registered his eighteenth victory for the Reds, shattering the Robins by 4 to 2 at Cincinnati.

The Cardinals whaled the Braves twice by 11 to 4 and 7 to 1. Moss Grove attempted his twenty-first victory as the White Sox opened their final series in Philadelphia and drew Ted Lyons for an opponent. A pitchers' battle was in prospect and one developed, but not until the Messrs. Grove and Lyons had been led away.

Boston rallied to shade Detroit by 8 to 7 in ten innings and Washington stopped the Indians by 5 to 2.

Here Are Youths Who Burned Up Amateur Meet

FOUR young men who hitherto have taken no prominent part in national golf championship play came to the front in surprising fashion during the amateur battle at Pebble Beach. To the left is Johnny Goodman, Omaha boy who defeated the champion, Bobby Jones, in the first round. Gene Homans, in the circle above, 21-year-old Englewood, N. J. boy, tied Bobby Jones for medal score with 145. Gene is the son of Shoppard Homans, old Princeton football star, and is a student at Princeton now. Below Homans is Gibson Dunlay, who, unheeded and unsung, shot a 69 to beat Jones by a stroke in the 36-hole qualifying round. Dunlay is a 21-year-old California man. To the right is the youngest of the four. William Lawson Little, Jr., 18-year-old San Francisco golfer. In the first round Little defeated Phillips Finlay, 1 up, and in the second round took the measure of Johnny Goodman, 2 and 1. Reaching the quarter-finals he faced the veteran, Francis Ouimet, and gave him a terrific nip-and-tuck battle up to the last green where he lost, 1 up. Ouimet had to sink a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the 36th hole to have it and retain his slender margin.

Carnegie Tech Has Eyes On National Grid Title

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — "Wally" Steffen—judge Walter P. Steffen—youth happen to meet him on the superior court bench in Chicago—is back for his seventh straight vacation, this time with the dream of a national champion in his eyes as he picks up again the coaching burdens of Carnegie Tech's big football team.

For 16 years Steffen, once a great quarterback at Chicago under "Old Man" Stagg, has struggled mightily to push the Tartan plaid to the top of the nation's football heap. For seven years he has sacrificed his vacations to hustle back to Pittsburgh for the training season. Each playing Saturday he commutes to the games from Chicago, leaving instructions with his assistant coaches for the following week's drills but not until two years ago did the gridiron gods smile on his efforts. Tech always had good teams but never title contenders. Then along

JIM BAGBY GETS HIS RELEASE FROM NEWARK

Newark — (AP) — The veteran right hander, Jim Bagby, has obtained his release from his old pal, Tris Speaker, and left for his home in Atlanta. Purchased from Jersey City in mid-season of 1928 by Newark, Bagby never again was able to approach even close to the form which made him a hero of Cleveland's pennant victory in 1920, and he decided to turn to a managerial career in a smaller league. He has several offers under consideration.

CHUCK SCHAEFER TO ENTER MARQUETTE

Star High School Griddier, Cager Leaves for Milwaukee This Week

Charles "Chuck" Schaefer, graduate of the class of 1928 at Appleton high school and one of the greatest ends ever to wear an Orange football uniform has enrolled in Marquette university and will leave for Milwaukee in a few days.

Schaefer played football during his entire high school career and always was ranked among the best ends in the conference. Last season he was picked on numerous all conference selections, the result of his efforts to help the Orange to a valley conference championship. His work in practically every game last fall brought commendation from both Coach Joseph Shields of the high school and from coaches of opposing teams.

Schaefer also is a basketball player of no mean ability and last season held down a guard position on the high school team. He and Bobby Kupitz ran up a record that wasn't even touched last season when they held opponents to the lowest scores of any valley team.

JEWEL ENS OFFERED JOB AS BUC MANAGER

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates has offered the job of managing the National leaguers next season, to Jewel Ens, who took over the reins after resignation of Donie Bush recently. Ens has not announced his decision.

Under the management of Ens, former team coach, the Pirates have won 11 of their last 16 games.

JACKIE FIELDS TO BATTLE VINCE DUNDEE

Chicago — (AP) — Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, will meet Vince Dundee, brother of Joe Dundee from whom he won his title in promoter Jack Dempsey's first show in Chicago, Oct. 2 in the Coliseum.

Chicago — (AP) — One of the busiest club offices of organized baseball locked the door from the inside today. It was so busy. The Chicago Cubs were getting ready for the world's series.

Here's How Chi Cubs Are Dispensing Series Ducats

Telephones were dead, so far as series conversation was concerned. The mail man was the only intermediary between the Cubs and their ticket-cager public. The only things that talked were certified and cashier's checks and money orders. Even the green and golden currency of the republic was being turned down.

Those who hope to see one or more of the Chicago games were, in a way, "put on the spot" by the ball club, but it was for the fans' own good. The club had figured out what seemed to it to be the fairest method of distribution.

"As long as six or eight persons can not sit in one seat at the same time, we had to find the best possible alternative," explained president William Veeck.

This is how it is to be done: Prices for the Wrigley field games will be $6.00 for boxes, $5.50 for grandstand, $3 for grandstand standing room and $1 for bleachers, taxes included.

WALSH FAVORITE AT PRO GOLF MEET

Annual Tournament Will Be Held Over Black Hawk Course, Madison

Between 20 and 30 of the best professional golfers in the state will meet at Madison next Monday in 36 holes of medal play over the Black Hawk Country club course to determine which two of them shall be entered in the national professional golf tournament. In California later this month.

Sparkling golf is expected to be the order of the day and a large gallery is expected to turn out to watch them. Each entrant will play 18 holes in the morning and another 18 hole round in the afternoon, the two with the lowest scores to be sent to the national meet with all expenses paid.

Several Madison professionals are among the favorites in the tournament, among them John Hackborth, professional at Black Hawk, who knows the course like a book from long experience with it. Earl "Cully" Schlot, who is a sort of migratory mentor, teaching at four clubs near Madison, and Alex Wilmet, Maple Bluff professional.

Others among the favorites are Leonard Gallett, Fond du Lac, who won the state professional title several weeks ago; Frank Walsh, Butte les Morris, Appleton, and former open champion who lost his crown Tuesday.

Others mentioned among the favorites were "Doc" Tracy, Milwaukee, secretary of the association, "Red" Leonard, Milwaukee country club, and Francis Gallett, Blue Mounds country club, brother of the state champion.

The competition is under the auspices of the state professional golfers' association. Black Hawk, one of the toughest courses in the state, has been given over to the association for the occasion.

HAYMANN, GRIFFITH HEADLINE GARDEN CARD

New York — (AP) — Madison Square Garden reopens for the indoor boxing season tonight.

At the top of the list comes the meeting between Dr. Ludwig Haymann, who holds the heavyweight championship of Germany since the abdication of Max Schmeling in search of greater laurels, and Tuffy Griffith of Sioux City, Ia.

The semi-final brings Ted Santina against Harold Mays of Bayonne, N. J., whose greatest share of the limelight came when he was serving as sparring partner to Gene Tunney. In the third ten rounder, Charley Smith, English heavy, makes his debut against Paul Cavalier of Passaic, N. J.

McCarthy Was Wise When He Strengthened Cubs

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright, 1929

NEW YORK — With the world series only four weeks off, Chicago fans are congratulating Joe McCarthy on his foresight in strengthening his team for the annual grind of pennant games and the world series setoff.

As his team crept up past the others, and the championship seemed more assured, McCarthy took a good look around and decided that first base needed strengthening owing to the injury of Charlie Grimm and that Harriett and Mike Gales, the regular catchers, needed aid.

Right in mid-season, he snatched up a veteran catcher, Zack Taylor, when Boston asked waivers on him. It looked for a time as if Zack was headed for the minors, but McCarthy's investment turned out to be well worth while.

Then he fixed things so that Grimes injury did little or no harm to the club's defensive power.

At first young Clarence Blair took charge of first base and it has been played worse than he played it, after him there came Charlie Tolson. Both of them had been given a little experience at the job, Blair last spring when he was training with the Cubs, and Tolson, of course, in two seasons when he trained at Catalina with Chicago and then was released to a minor league because it was not thought that the time and arrived to retire Grimm at first.

In addition to those players, Joe McCarthy as if sensing that something might happen to his first baseman in 1929, used Riggs Stephenson a lot in practice at first base in California and Stephenson can play first base much better than a novice.

By having both Blair and Tolson, McCarthy was not compelled to take Stephenson from the outfield where he was most anxious that he should remain. With Kiki Cuyler, Hack Wilson and Stephenson playing the outfield, McCarthy thinks that he has at last one man who can start something and another, or perhaps two others, to help it along.

His whole scheme of practice at Catalina in the spring was based on that theory of making runs. He arranged his players in the batting order with the nation that wherever an inning might break he would have some kind of an effective at bat ready for the next inning.

That plan was upset when Gabby Hartnett, his first string catcher, woke up with a useless arm than it was that Zack Taylor proved his value.

Miller is making every effort to arrange several good bouts for introduction of the amateur sport in to Appleton and will consider the application of almost any youngster who indicates he will make a good showing.

Amateur boxing has thrived in practically every large city in the state and with a couple local youngsters interested in the sports and a flock of candidates from this section of the state, local legionnaires have undertaken to revive the sport here.

BIG BILL TILDEN CONTINUES ROMP THROUGH NET STARS

defeats Henry Culley, Harvard, Without Removing Sweater

OREST HILLS, N. Y.—(AP)—If Big Bill Tilden's drive for his seventh national tennis singles championship is to be stopped, the stopping will have to be done by one of seven players.

In addition to Big Bill himself the quarter final bracket today contained Johnny Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., No. 6 in the national king list; Johnny Doe, of Santa Monica, Cal., rated No. 8; Henry Stin, of England, the lone survivor of the quarter final round; Wilmer Allen, ranked No. 5, the Texan who George Lott out of the running; Iz Mercier, Bethlehem, Pa., No. 7; Frank Hunter, Tilden's old friend and comrade, No. 2, and Richard N. Hams of Philadelphia, champion 13 years ago.

Van Ryn, bracketed with Tilden in the quarter finals today, defeated last winter in an indoor match on the basis of his recent play in singles has only an outside chance of defeating the old master. Van Ryn won a set in his match with Tilden.

KANSAS CITY COPS 2 MORE FROM MILLS

Paul Also Wins Twice by Beating Brewers 8-6 and 4-2

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago—(AP)—Dutch Zwilling kept Kansas City Blues in Minnesota an extra day and collected a record for what the Mills did to Tuesday.

Kansas City slugged five hurlers 13 hits in the first game and by 8 to 6, also taking the second.

Paul also picked up a pair of ones, whipping Milwaukee, 5 to 0 and 11 to 7. Archie Campbell was the wobbly in the first inning of opener, but steadied and held Brewers scoreless thereafter.

His mates got to Herbert Cobb the seventh for there runs to win. Saints hammered out 16 hits, including Ben Chapman's twenty-

PLAY LAST ROUND AT WOMEN'S MEET

Helen Hicks With 10 Stroke Lead Already Uncrowned Golf Champion

Chicago—(AP)—Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old golfer from Inwood, L. I., today apparently had only to go through the motions of playing 18 holes over the Flossmoor course, before receiving the winner's trophy for the Western Women's Golf Association 72-hole derby.

The slugging miss from the east owned a 54-hole score of 239, or 10 strokes better than Mrs. Lee Mira of Chicago, in second place. Miss Hicks failed to bring out her par wrecking game yesterday, carding an 83 to add to her first two rounds of 78, but Mrs. Mira produced her third straight 83 and failed to gain a stroke.

Maureen Orcutt of New York, and Virginia Van Wile of Chicago, finally found themselves and shot an 80 and a 70 respectively, but got going too late to overtake. Miss Hicks, Miss Orcutt was third with a total of 251, and Miss Van Wile fourth at 255. Mrs. Gregg Lufur of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Austin Pardue of Hibbing, Minn., were tied for the next position with scores of 256.

STEVE FARRELL TO RETIRE AS COACH

Michigan Track Mentor Was Famous Runner in His Early Days

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—Stephen J. Farrell, veteran coach of university of Michigan track teams, will retire next spring, terminating a career of 45 years as an athlete and coach.

No official announcement has been made of his retirement but when he returned to Ann Arbor yesterday, to begin his year's work, he said he would be through next June.

Back in the early days Steve Farrell was the world's champion half miler. He could run any race from the hundred to the mile. Professional foot racing, first on the hose teams of the early days and later in the glamorous atmosphere of the Caledonia games and the Sheffield handicap, gave Farrell his first reputation as a track star.

He was captain at one time of three hose teams in the east. This was in the 50's and his companions were Mike Murphy, late coach at the University of Pennsylvania, Johnny Mack of Yale, "Foch" Donovan of Harvard, Walter Christie of

QUAINT OLD HOME OF HAWTHORNE MAY BE MADE A SHRINE

Building Was Only House Ever Owned by American Writer

BY JOHN B. KNOX
Concord, Mass. — (AP) — "Way-side," a rambling old New England house which has the distinction of being the only home Nathaniel Hawthorne ever owned, may be saved as a literary shrine for the American public.

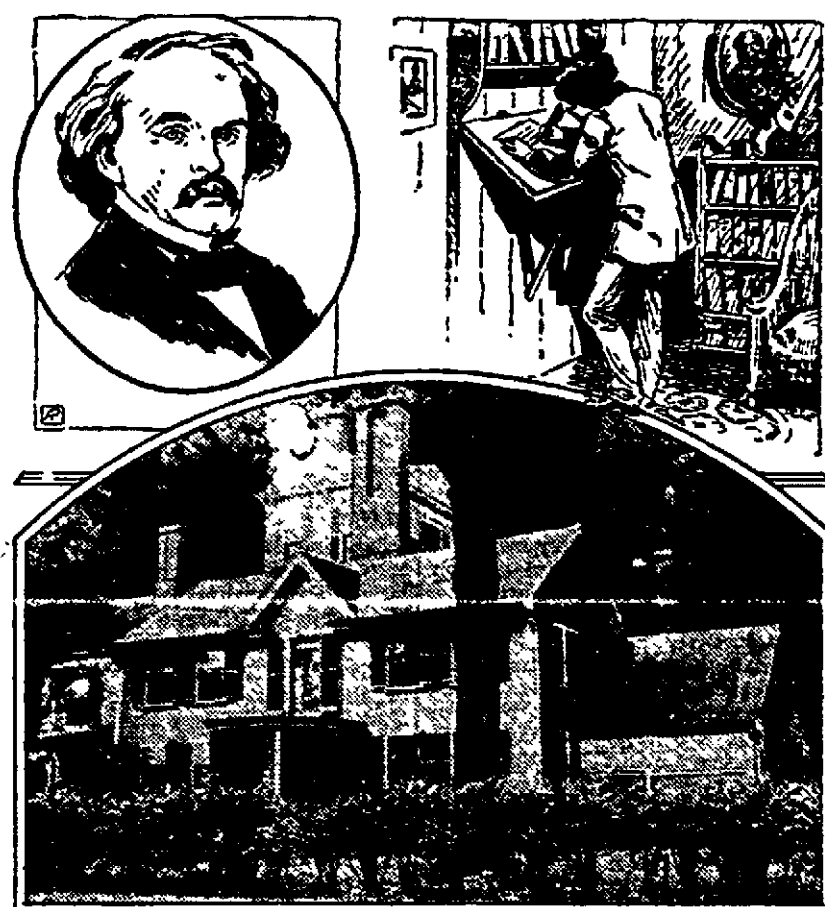

The ancient wooden building, more than two centuries old and possessing an endowment of literary associations left by three authors, has been opened to the public as an experiment.

The Concord Antiquarian society hopes to ascertain within the next few weeks whether public interest will warrant the raising of money to purchase and preserve the property.

The rich literary associations began before Hawthorne's occupancy. The Alcott family bought the house in 1845—when it was begun—no one is certain—and here Louisa May Alcott, played as a girl with her sisters. Impressions she gained at that time went into the writing of "Little Women."

The Alcotts called the place "Hillside," but when Hawthorne bought it in 1852 he renamed it "Way-side." Hawthorne made many changes but his outstanding addition was a tower rising above the house. The tower is just a large, square study. To this study, it is said, Hawthorne climbed a ladder through a dark and narrow passage.

Then, to insure privacy, according to tradition, he closed a trapdoor and placed his chair on top of it. A narrow, dark stairway later replaced the ladder. Sometimes he stood and wrote on a shelf desk near one window.

Hawthorne's son, Julian, and later his daughter, Mrs. Rose Lathrop, lived in the place after his death. Still later, it passed to George Parsons Lathrop, Boston

ALL "DRY" STATES DON'T SUPPORT DRY LAW SATISFACTORY

Conditions in Some Borders Are Bad, League Report Shows

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of three articles by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for Post-Crescent and NEA Service, discussing "prohibition education" work.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — The Anti-Saloon League, reporting on prohibition conditions over the country in its 1929 year book, prefaces its reports on each state with citation of presidential election results for last November, regarding the greatly preponderant number of Hoover victories as triumphs for prohibition.

Reports of the state leagues, which are being summarized in this and a previous story, sometimes fail to describe enforcement conditions from the dry standpoint in states where the league opinion might be the most interesting. Thus the Michigan league, doubtless aware of extensive liquor smuggling from Ontario, fails to mention that situation.

Other state reports, continued in brief, are:

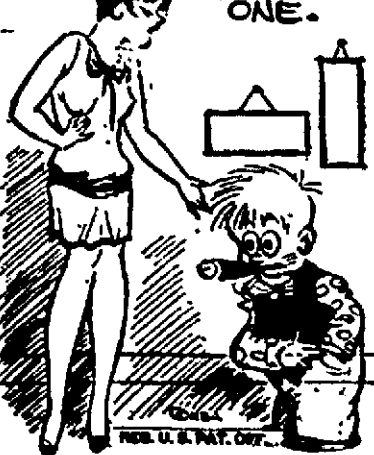

Minnesota — A new wet congressman was elected, with reduction of publisher, whose wife was known as an author under the name "Margaret Sidney." Most of Mrs. Lathrop's work on "Five Little Peppers" was done in this house.

Mrs. Lathrop's daughter, present owner, has said she will sell the place.

wet strength in state House of Representatives. Observation of state's temperance instruction law leaves much to be desired.

Mississippi — State law limits possession of liquor to one quart.

Missouri — Now has one dry senator and 13 drys among 16 congressmen and a drastic state enforcement law.

Montana — Drys fighting to regain ground lost in popular referendum to repeal state enforcement laws in 1926 and defeat of proposal for new law in 1928.

Nebraska — State enforcement officers have recently noticeably increased their activity, resulting in more convictions and heavier penalties.

Nevada — Enforcement badly handicapped through lack of state law. State has fewer than 40 churches, which cramps Anti-Saloon League.

New Hampshire — Enforcement officers are doing good work, but state supreme court decision has made it practically impossible to deal with bootleggers on charge of illegal possession.

New Jersey — Drys look forward to a reasonable degree of enforcement as a result of Governor Larson's election.

New Mexico — Nothing to worry about.

New York — Has been the storm center of opposition for prohibition. Enforcement situation not likely to change without enactment of a state dry law.

North Dakota — Wets plan to promote another referendum in 1930 after narrow defeat in 1928.

Ohio — Enforcement made more difficult by court decision against jurisdiction of mayors and justices of peace in violation, and overwhelming 1927 referendum defeat of proposed drastic enforcement law.

Oklahoma — State enforcement code has been strengthened from time to time.

Oregon — Enforcement conditions improving, despite some difficulties.

Pennsylvania — Better control over industrial alcohol and closing of some illicit breweries.

Rhode Island — Has always been a large consumer of beverage liquor. State police have greatly strengthened enforcement.

South Carolina — Enforcement conditions improving steadily, with more and heavier sentences.

South Dakota — Enforcement fairly good, lacking appropriations.

Texas — Shows a 25 per cent increase in number of imprisoned bootleggers.

Virginia — More fines and more stills and liquor seized. Trial and conviction under state law quicker and more certain than under Volstead act.

Washington — Enforcement conditions considerably improved in last three years.

Wisconsin — Most recent of the states to repeal enforcement laws.

Continues to be "a center of anti-prohibition agitation."

Wyoming — No gain; no loss. Drys anticipate better days.

A small town is one where one of the leading citizens deplores circuses because they take away so much money.

You have a Doctor's Word for this Laxative

IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. Children like its pleasant taste. Older people like it because it doesn't gripe or cause discomfort. It is a mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimulates the normal muscular action of the bowels. So its use will not become a habit. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, biliousness, feverishness, or no energy, poor appetite, etc., are relieved by Dr. Caldwell's prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. All drug stores have the generous bottles. The product never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original formula. So you can take it with confidence or give it to the youngest child.

ROTARIANS HONOR PIONEER LAWE ON HIS 92ND BIRTHDAY

ay Tribute to Kaukauna Settler and Hear Talk on Railroads and Public

Kaukauna—John Lawe was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Kaukauna Rotary club Wednesday noon at the Legion hall on Oak. The dinner was given in celebration of Mr. Lawe's ninety-second birthday anniversary which will be Tuesday, Sept. 17.

He gave a talk on Kaukauna as was when he was a boy and as it is at the present time. He stated that the chief means of travel then was by oxen. He added that the roads were not Indian trails when he was a lad.

Talking of the days when his father operated a farm on the present site of Lawe park he told how he used to shoot wild pigeons on the land which now is covered with trees and stores. He said the father shot deer and was the first to use the Mississippi river to the Gulf at New Orleans, hoping to obtain a lower freight rate than the railroads can offer.

Just now, when there are millions of bushels of wheat that might be shipped down the Mississippi for port, this method of transportation falls us. What the situation is to mind the fact that there is nothing so much to be desired in transportation service as every-day dependability.

MILLIONS ALREADY SPENT
The nation has already spent millions of dollars on this waterway and preparing to spend millions more between St. Louis and the Twin Cities, as well as to improve the Illinois, so as to reach Chicago via that river and the Chicago drainage and canal. Improved or canalized rivers, however, are of little practical use without sufficient water there to move ordinary barges. Under circumstances this waterway agency every day in the year traffic will it ever be. It will make the difference how much money we spend on it or how much we may desire to use it as a competitor of the railroads. At best we shall be to use it during a portion of the year only and, as at present, there is always danger of its being of commission at the very time need it most.

There is this difference between transportation and that furnished by interior waterways, the one is dependable everyday proposition while the other is not. It is never too hot or cold for the railroads to operation. They are in no sense dependent upon rainfall or climate conditions. Day and night week in and week out, their trains, laden with the products of our farms and the products of our factories, go thundering on, providing an absolutely dependable service, necessary to the convenience and well being of the American people. One imagines that we could get along without them and it will surely be in our interest to see that they given reasonable protection. The subsidized forms of transportation that are just now receiving so large a share of public affection.

There is no disposition to dispute the American people over their right to use whatever character of transportation agency they desire. It is, however, for us to consider the phase of so important a proposition as this before reaching a decision. There are abundant reasons to justify a suspicion in the minds of intelligent men that much of the money we are investing in interior waterways is an economic waste. We have been operating a line on the lower Mississippi ten years and the results so far have never shown that it will ever financially profitable except by a process of accounting that does not take into consideration such items as labor, and capital costs. Under the present operation of transportation these items stand out like a vast moon.

RAILROADS NOT SUBSIDIZED
The railroads of this country are subsidized though they are about only transportation agency we have that is not. More than 25 billion of private capital is invested in them, upon which they must pay a return. They are also the easy prey of the tax collector, their contribution to the support of our different forms of government being above a million dollars each day. Much more than they pay for fuel supply. Moreover they are limited under the law in the amount they may earn and retain for their own use. Nevertheless they go on, with a character of pride and faith, such as is required for great accomplishments, inflicting new millions in their proper-

Several rooms were completely renovated by Wednesday and were used for a banquet given for the stockholders of the Bank of Kaukauna at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. The hotel has been engaged by the Moloch company for Saturday when an anniversary banquet will be held followed by a dancing party.

The log is from a tree born about the time Columbus discovered America.

Now You Can Banish Pimples In Few Days

Costs But a Few Cents to Have Clean, Clear Skin You'll Be Proud Of

Mrs. Minnie Jones of Louisville writes: "Peterson's Ointment sure is fine for blackheads. My face was covered with them, but after using the ointment they are all gone." And in a letter about pimples, Miss Genevieve Linehan of Bradford, Mass., writes: "I had tried most every kind of ointment for pimples, but found none as good as Peterson's Ointment. I am on my first box and my face is nearly clear. I am very pleased with it."

Druggists everywhere sell Peterson's Ointment. It clears the skin. 35 cents a box. adv.

STYLE IS DOMINANT FACTOR IN JEWELRY AND BUSINESS TODAY

Jewels Unchanged in Chemical or Atomical Structure but Treatment Differs

BY J. C. ROYLE
New York—Style is a dominant factor today in jewelry as well as in women's clothing and a score of other industries. This fact was strongly emphasized today by some of the great manufacturing jewelers who have just returned from a study of the European jewel markets.

Jewels are unchanged in chemical and atomic structure, but their treatment has never been so different since prehistoric man found a bright pebble and polished it. Long before the uses of fire were discovered, man found pearls in the oysters he opened for food. "Pearls with a difference," is the dominant note for the moment in modern jewel fashions, according to the manufacturers. The call at present is for seed pearls. This is more emphatic than it has been since the days of the field cloth of gold in the middle ages.

Necklaces now are being made of five or more strands of seed pearls linked into flat, exquisitely carved pieces of jade or crystal.

PEARL TASSELS
Pearl tassels from 6 to 10 inches in length are formed of these seedlings, which for years were begging in the markets of the orient and along the Mussel beds of the Mississippi. Coral is also introduced as a color contrast for the necklace clasps.

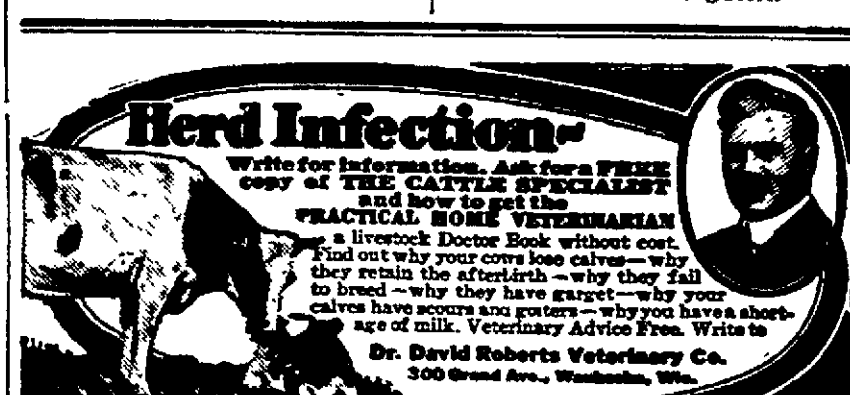

This does not mean that the large pearls are out of fashion. They never will be, according to the jewelers, but some of the black, pink and other colored big pearls are now suspended on chains of seedlings. The production of the finest pearls, those of the Persian gulf, remains almost stationary from year to year but this new demand has naturally forced up prices and values today are higher than they have ever been.

London gets the pick of the oriental pearls and the better necklaces frequently retail from $500,000. This is an average price for a necklace of good quality. A price of $150,000 for a single pearl of outstanding value is not unknown there. The best retail market is the United States and the most choice matchings and selections find their way here. It might be estimated from this that the profit margin of the middleman and retailer is large on pearls, but this is not the case. The margin is fairly small from a jeweler's viewpoint, but the turnover is rapid and selling costs are not excessive.

The vogue for pearls has not overshadowed the demand for diamonds, which after all, according to the trade, are the real measure of price changes in the jewel field. Demand for the white carbons is making itself evident in a new form. The call is all for rectangles, trapeziums, triangles and half moons. But perhaps the most startling development is the colored baguette.

CHAPTER 36
A PLOT FLUSTERED

UPON a step deep-set in leafy hedge sat two men, black-clad fellows, whose rough garments smacked of ships and the sea. "Sunset, Jonas!" said one, leaning to peer down the lane. "Sunset, Jonas, and she be night doo, I rack-on!" Get 'ee down and stand by wi' the cloak; 'twunt do to let 'er squeak."

"She ain't a-goin to do no squeakin' on this I gets my 'ands on 'er, Will, not she!"

Then, the better to listen, they stood erect in that place of deepening shadow, vigilantly alert, while from dry ditch at no great distance a pair of keen eyes watched them through tangled wisps of gypsy-black hair.

"Futspates!" whispered Jonas, suddenly snatching up a coil of small-cord.

A quick, light tread of feet coming rapidly nearer .... nearer yet .... the two human animals crouched to snap .... Thus, my lady Helen and herself suddenly confronted by two vague yet menacing shapes. Pierce arms imprisoned her; she strove to scream but a brutal hand choked her — then a heavy cloak smothered, blinded, stifled her, a deftly knotted cord plinked her struggling limbs ....

A gasping oath and she was down, rolling helpless in the dust, yet with a consciousness of desperate strife above and all about her. A heavy blows, tramping feet, a wild hurly-burly suddenly ended. Then my lady, actually and truly, swooned away like the merest female.

When her eyes opened again she saw a face framed in curly black hair.

"Who .... Who is it?" she gasped.

"Only me .... Fullalove, ma'm .... Dick!"

"Oh, thank God .... oh, what did it mean?"

"Flok-pocatin'!"

"No — here was more .... more than robbery! Are they quite — quite gone?"

Hoofs upon the road approaching at brisk canter, a horseman who sang happily .... An exclamation of startled surprise and down leapt the Marquis.

"Two men, Ned," cried my lady. "They attacked me. This brave fellow drove them off .... he saved me .... saved me from — oh Ned!" And Helen shuddered violently and covered her face.

"Split me!" exclaimed the Marquis, clasping a protecting arm about her. "Now tell me all — did the villains rob you?"

"No, they meant not robbery, Ned. But let us talk of sweeter subject .... tell me of thy Angela."

"My Angela?" gasped. "By heaven, she's a saint, Helen."

The lady stopped to turn and look back.

"Fullalove! He fought for me — I saw blood on his face! He saved me from — I never spoke him one word of thanks!"

"'Eh — the gardener fellow? I'll see he's sufficiently rewarded — ay, I will."

So Helen came safely home with Angela's name sounding in her ears repeatedly, but before her mental vision a face marked with blood, grinsmiling, shadowy, framed in curly gypsy-black hair, a face that, stirring memory, was to follow her to bed and haunt her slumbers.

Captain Despard had manifested unwonted restlessness all day. Towards sunset Mr. Titus Oldcraft rode up to the Inn and beheld the captain's comely bewigged head leaning forth of the lattice above.

Mr. Oldcraft bowed; Captain Despard merely beckoned and Mr. Oldcraft betook himself upstairs forthwith.

"You dispatched your mission?"

Inquired the captain. "You bring me a message — a letter, perhaps?"

"Sir, I do," answered Mr. Oldcraft, "but first may I remind you as there was promised a small honorarium, a mere —"

"A bribe, Mr. Oldcraft, of 20 guineas to carry a letter to Viscount Brocklehurst since I knew not where to find him," said the captain, and tossed a purse on the table.

Oldcraft glared defiance, counted the coins, and handed over an envelope. At the captain's command he suddenly left the room.

Despard carefully read the letter, then called Lord and Lord, John.

"Landlord, read me this letter aloud!"

So John took the letter and read as follows:

"I fear no man breathing, least of any yourself. I will meet you tonight about 10 o'clock at the Old Mill. We can settle our business by lantern-light — B."

"John, you gather the meaning — his lordship and I are to fight duel."

"But, sir — your bad arm?"

"Why, yes," murmured the captain, "I'll probable he counts on this yet it shall not prevent me killing him, I hope. But listen, my good John. Now should I return not — say by midnight, then send in quest of me. Should I be dead on the place by sword or bullet, why 'tis well then. But — should I have vanished — then you shall you secure the Old Mill for me, drag that ghastly pool, quest amid the underbrush! Should my corpse be found in either place — you will surely know me murderer; this letter shall be sufficient proof. So this letter you will take charge of and guard carefully."

"Why .... so I will, sir," answered John, shaking troubled head, bowed himself out and straightway went himself to certain name the passage and up secret stair to small, windowless chamber.

"Lord love you, Sir, Richard, such despatch, bloody business!" quoted John and placing the letter on the table, recounted the whole matter.

"Hum!" murmured Sir Richard. "And no one to second him! 'Tis most irregular!"

"Why, so thinks I, sir."

"And devilish dangerous! The man must be looked to, John."

"Ay, so think, I your honor. But the cap'n's mighty high and determined."

"There's evil waiting at the old mill tonight, John."

"Sure as we're born, sir! Ghosts of your honor, phantoms and — worse!"

"Ay, there's death, John! So we must needs find the gentleman sender of sorts, come what may."

"What, sir d' ye mean as you —?"

"Ay, verily!" nodded Sir Richard, folding up the letter. "So take you this and hold it safe."

"But, sir — your honor, how if you be seen?"

"I must risk it — nay, begone, man, and let me write — faith here a packet, 'tis for Madame the Duchess at the Moat House, John, you'll see 't teaches her tomorrow morning by a sure hand —"

"Ay, I will, sir but —"

"Then off with you, but warn me the instant Captain Despard sets out tonight."

MUNICIPAL HOUSING PROJECTS PROVING SUCCESS IN LONDON

Complete Town of Becontree Built Outright by Council

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—While municipal housing projects remain pretty much of an experiment in the United States, the system has proven itself a whole lot of success in London.

The London County council, already rated as one of the greatest landlords in the world, has built outright the complete town of Becontree, of 60,000 population, and is starting to build the town of St. Helier, with a contemplated population of 40,000.

In this regard, there is only one other giant municipality which rivals it, and that is Vienna. There the Socialist city government has been erecting handsome apartment buildings and one and two-family cottages to house the people.

300,000 TENANTS
But with the completion of its present plans, the London County Council will find itself the landlord of about 300,000 persons. It already has spent $135,000,000 for apartments and houses, and has provided $30,000,000 more for the same purpose.

As far back as 1851, parliament passed legislation allowing the various British municipal authorities to clear out unhealthy areas and carry out improvement schemes; to deal with individual insanitary houses; and to build new houses for the working classes. In 1886 the greater part of the government of huge London was placed in the hands of the London County Council which is elected by the people.

This body ever since, has been tackling especially the question of providing homes for the steadily growing population. And it has been particularly active since the war, because all building was practically stopped during the great contest.

In America practically no houses are built for dwelling purposes by the municipal governments. In Great Britain the towns not only do so, but the British government, out of funds placed at the disposal of the Ministry of Health, assists in this work. Thus, for some houses it gives the L. C. C. as the London County Council is popularly known—as much as $45 per year for 40 years.

The L. C. C. began by building municipal lodging houses all over London, where for a small nightly fee the homeless men and women could have a bed and room. It now has accommodations for 1880. The next step was to erect flat buildings in various sections.

It soon began to broaden its activities by buying tracts of land on the outskirts of London which could be reached by trains and underground railways. Then it went even further. At Becontree in Essex, it purchased a huge tract of 2770 acres. Part of this land was reserved for public park for the residents. Another part was reserved for playing fields. Sites were reserved for shops, schools, churches and public buildings. Houses and flats were put up, the rental of which runs from $2.50 to $6.25 per week.

26,000 HOMES BUILT
Two churches already have been built by their congregations, and others are in contemplation. Six schools now are open and three more are being constructed. The town already has 12,760 houses and flats, with a population of nearly 60,000.

Plans have been drawn which will bring the number of houses and flats owned there by the L. C. C. to 26,000 with a resident population of nearly 150,000.

This constitutes the greatest municipal housing undertaking in history. The only thing comparing to it is the city of Gary, Indiana, mainly built by the United States Steel Company.

Becontree is to the northeast of London. The L. C. C. now has bought to the south of London a tract of 843 acres, where 10,000 houses and flats are proposed, with a population of 60,000. Like Becontree, it is to be a model garden town with public parks and playing grounds. It is to be named St. Helier after Lady St. Helier, an Alderman in the Council, who for 20 years has given much of her time to social work.

POLICE DEPARTMENT CAN'T ANSWER CALLS FOR TIME OF DAY

Don't call the police station and ask for the time of day.

Such is the warning and request of Chief of Police George T. Prim, who is up in arms because people again have taken to the habit of calling the desk sergeant for the correct time.

Telling time of day is not part of the policeman's work and calls only make a lot of unnecessary work. If a desk sergeant is taking a report from an officer over a police phone and the other phone rings the sergeant must let the officer wait until he answers and if the question is for the time it's altogether unnecessary.

Too, numerous calls for time and other non-essential questions has the telephone line busy when someone calls with a legitimate request or with legitimate information.

LUMP WIPES OUT EARLY DAY GAINS ON STOCK MARKET

Accounting for Peculiar Behavior of Prices on "Big Board"

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL, Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(AP)—The stock market today, rallying briskly at the opening and then plunging downward, early gains of 1 to 2 points in the active issues and 7 to 21 points in a few high priced specialties were wiped out, and a long list of popular stocks sold to 8 points below yesterday's final quotations. Some recovery took place in the early afternoon.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden change of sentiment. Call money was in comfortable supply at 8 per cent with indications that the rate would be maintained for the rest of the week, due to the heavy accumulation of funds here in anticipation of 15-month payments. Other money rates were unchanged. The bank of England made no change in its discount rate, but it is possible that the Federal Reserve bank will have a meeting after the close of the market.

Freight car loadings in the last week of August, made public today, set a new high record for that period, and electrical output for July, figures for which have just been compiled, also reached a new peak. Business and trade news generally was so favorable although some uncertainty is apparent as a result of a recent falling off in steel output and the shrinkage of unfilled orders. The copper market is still falling on an 18 cents a pound basis, no proved disappointing to holders of those stocks.

American Machine & Foundry ran 2 1/2 points to another new high record at 27 1/2 in the early trading. Case jumped 7 1/2 points to a new high record at 45 1/2. Radio ran up more than 5 points to a new high record at 114 1/2, but fell to 114 in the mid-day reaction.

High priced industrials and specialties were hard hit in the selling movement. United Clear stores dropped 8 points to a new low at 75. Westinghouse Electric dropped 8 points last night close, General Electric 6 1/2, Johnson & Johnson 4 1/2, U. S. Steel 3 1/2, American Water Works, DuPont, General Electric 3 1/2, U. S. Steel 3 1/2, Collins & Aikman sank 2 to 32.

LIVESTOCK PRICES HAVE HIT BOTTOM

Believe Reaction Has Started in Market at Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Early developments in the local market indicated that prices have hit bottom for the present movement and that a reaction to the recent sharp downturns is about to set in. With a run of 20,000 and 7,000 state hogs holders were able to dictate strong prices for butchers and 10c to 15c higher prices for packing sows during the first period of activity. Light hogs weighing under 200 lbs. however, were not affected by improved conditions and were held about steady. Buyers offered $10.35 for the better classes of lights and light butchers.

A projected rally in the cattle trade was smoothed early today under a big supply of steers of plain to good quality forwarded from pasture lands in Illinois and Wisconsin. Estimated receipts of 8,000 was 3,000 larger than a week ago and the total for the week to date exceeds that of last week by 7,000. No western arrivals and packers did not feel the absence of direct billings. Initial prices were steady, but the trade had a weak undertone on all but the best steers.

Packers received only 248 heads of lambs direct out of a total run of 20,000. About a dozen cars, mostly westerners, arrived late. Good action was looked for in the trade, as less than half of the run was suitable for slaughter.

KIDNAPING WILL FURTHER PROBE OF TEXTILE SITUATION

Congressional Investigation
Expected to Be Given Im-

Charlotte, N. C.—Prevailing sentiment here is that the kidnaping of three organizers of the National Textile Workers' union, in which one received a severe beating at the hands of a mob, will further the congressional investigation of the southern textile mill situation, as provided for in a resolution introduced by Senator Wheeler.

Since March 1, there have been 20 strikes in Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina. Some of them have been spontaneous strikes, with organizers arriving after they were underway. The resulting unrest and disorder have seriously hampered production at the peak of one of the best years the mills have enjoyed in a long time. They have met the efforts of the organizers, both of the national and united textile workers' union, the latter being the American Federation of Labor organization, with a resistance which gives little hope of compromise.

There is a disinterested element in the southern states which sees in congress the only hope of any basic inquiry or hopeful solution.

IDENTIFY ASSAILANTS

While the victims of the mob identified a number of their assailants, naming among them others, a member of the Gastonia police force, it is regarded as highly improbable that any action will be taken. This correspondent, after the mob had invaded Gastonia, entered the headquarters of the international labor defense, and searched for Tom P.
Jinison, defense counsel. The correspondent interviewed Chief of Police Alex West, Chief of Police of the detective division, and Vic P. Fesperman, chief of the rural police.
Chief West produced the police blotter, showing no record of any disturbance. All said they had neither observed nor heard of the commission of any illegal acts. The writer found Ben Wells, victim of the mob, under the care of Dr. John C.
Miles, at Charlotte hotel. His body was covered with welts and his face was swollen. He was not in a condition to tell what had happened or to say what he intended to do.

Attorney Jinison was asked whether warrants would be sworn out for the men identified as having been members of the mob.

NO WARRANTS

"No," he replied, "it would be useless. We would have no chance of getting any of them held. There have been no prosecutions in previous instances of this kind, and there will be no prosecutions in this. When I heard the mob was looking for me,
I telephoned for the police and asked for protection. Three policemen arrived and advised me to 'hide-out', saying the mob would surely get me if I didn't."

"In my opinion, the situation throughout the south has come to a point which thoroughly merits federal attention. I am telegraphing Senator Wheeler, urging him to push the federal inquiry."

John Randolph Neal, defense attorney, and associate counsel in the Scopes evolution case at Tennessee, issued a public statement in which he denounced the mob violence and the inactivity of the police as evidence of the complete break-down of law in North Carolina. Mr. Neal, hearing that the mob was looking for him, had telephoned police headquarters for protection.

The sergeant was out and he got another man on the desk," said Chief West, when asked about this. "This man reported that he had threatened to advertise us all over the world if we didn't give him protection. When a man talks to me like that, it's just something between him and me. I

REPORT SPIRITUALIST INHERITS FORTUNE

San Francisco—(AP)—The Examiner today published an announcement by Philip W. Hackett, former convict and practitioner of occult science, that he had inherited $2-$90,000 from a cousin, Jack Hackett, of Long Island, N. Y., and $900,000 from an uncle, Dr. F. C. McDonald, of Boston.

Hackett was a friend of Charles W.
Pike, San Francisco manufacturer's agent, who disappeared a year ago.
At that time Robert K. Pike, son of the missing man, told the police his father had been under Hackett's domination. The son also asserted that the Pike fortune had been disipated through the demands of "spirit mediums" asking for money.

Hackett said he would leave for the east next week to collect the fortunes.

VELVET HATS ARE BECOMING POPULAR

New Material Has Been Edging Itself into Favor
Gradually

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—The velvet hats are commencing to make their appearance but they have not burst on us in all their glory at once. They have been edging themselves in gradually by means of combining their material with others. Strangely enough, it is very light materials which are used with the deep piled velvets. For example one small hat well off the face but with low sides and long back lines is of bands of black velvet interspersed with blonde tulle. This is very effective for women with blond hair.

The smartest of Parisian hairdressers sends this dictum to his customers in this country. "The hair remains short, for nothing is so becoming to the present-day sportswoman. But for the more formal social activities is quite obvious that the hair must be in harmony with the afternoon or evening dress. But for the more formal social activities it is quite obvious that the hair must be in harmony with the afternoon or evening dress. The effect must be soft with no heaviness.
The hair, therefore, may be allowed to grow a little to be a trifle fluffier and soft and wavy even curly at the ends. In a word it must be in harmony with the feminine frocks of this season."

Once again the French dressmakers are trying desperately to get women into trousers. The models of the fall sport suits from Paris are nearly all of the three-piece type consisting of coat, wrap-around skirt and knickerbockers. These may be of heavy crepe de chine or jersey, the skirt is fastened only at the waist and swings apart to show the knick-ers which according to many smart American women are no very engaging sight, since they suggest badly tailored plus form.

The recent excavations amidst the ruins of Babylon have given impetus in the jewelry trade to designs resembling the old Babylonian ornaments. The designs of old Persian carpets may be produced in enameled bracelets or on handbags and many new brooches are inspired by such diadems as court favorites in Babylon might have worn. The latest snake necklace lies flat and snug to the neck with the body fashioned of square cut stones.
The head is of silver or platinum with little ruby eyes.

sent a man down to tell him that we couldn't give him a bodyguard. I wasn't feeling very well and I went home. I didn't see anything wrong."

REMEMBER, THOU SHALT NOT SHOOT DUCK ON WEDNESDAY

Conservation Commission Warns Hunters to Keep Commandment in Mind

Madison—(AP)—If there are "hunters' widows" as there are golf widows, they may expect surcease from the pain of widowhood each Wednesday during the forthcoming duck hunting season.

The conservation department has warned duck shooters they must keep the sign "no hunting on Wednesday" present in their mind. If it is not erected on the marshes and lakes, where they gun.

The 1929 legislature, now in its dying days, passed the Duckless

Wednesday's laws, similar to the war-time meatless days and sugar less days.

The conservation department holds that "during recent years the conservation has grown among sportsmen that by establishing refuges and rest periods, hunting can be improved.
Experience of eastern states prove this."

Other laws on duck hunting are the same as last year—no shooting from open water, nor from sunset until 30 minutes before sunrise, nor from any motor boat, and no shooting of any game birds other than wild geese or brant with a rifle.

Decoy provisions are the same, too. No one hunter is entitled to more than 50 decoys within and no decoys beyond 200 feet from the blind or covering in which the hunter is located. The 50 decoys allowed may include not more than five live decoys, each of which must be provided with a registration tag.

"The commission appeals to the good sportsman, not only to abide by the game laws, but to have consid-

CANADIAN WHEAT HAS MORE PROTEIN

Storage Facilities Also Adequate There, Bureau Reports

Washington—(AP)—The high protein content of Canadian wheat, adequate storage facilities and favorable transportation rates were cited today by officials of the bureau of agricultural economics as important factors contributing to ation for the other hunter. Remember that no shotgun can carry a killing load further than 15 to 16 yards and remember that it is bad sportsmanship to shoot at ducks out of range, to spoil a shot for a neighboring hunter.

the disparity between Canadian and American wheat prices.

The bureau yesterday undertook an investigation at the request of the federal farm board to learn the causes of the disparity and what bearing storage facilities in this country had on it.

Forecasting the need of the farm board for such information, the bureau under the direction of its chief, Nils A. Olson, has been studying the situation for some time, and much of the data requested is available, although a field survey is to be conducted of country and terminal storage space.

The greatest disparity in prices were found by Dr. O. C. Sims, chief of the division of statistical and historical research, to be on cash grain delivered or near future, generally from 8 to 9 cents a bushel in favor of the Canadians. It was found also that dominion grain generally had higher protein for it because of its better suitability for flour milling purposes.

Talks To Parents

THE CHRONIC SNEER
By Alice Judson Fiske

In some homes the atmosphere is permeated with a chronic sneer.
The elders of the family are full of derogatory criticism of their neighbors, their friends, their community.
They know everybody's weak points and delight in their clever exposition.
They are artists in ridicule.

Yet outside the home the necessity of living peaceably with others compels these grown ups to assume a surface friendliness which the children who hear them in the unconscious moments over the breakfast table know to be either rank hypocrisy or expedient pretense.

Children who grow up in such an atmosphere are likely to be neither kindly nor sincere. In imitating their parents' critical attitude they are bound to arrive at a false feeling of superiority over those from whom they might yet learn many a lesson. Anyone can ridicule. It is a cheap satisfaction and one which growing children may well do without.

I do not suggest that we should refrain from all adverse criticism—on the contrary, occasional honest criticism is entirely wholesome—nor do I think that for the sake of our children it is wise to gloss over with untruth and subterfuge those critical comments we do make.
But we can learn to be silent. We can refrain from the most part from discussing the less admirable aspects of people's characters. We can let our children form their own opinions of people and trust them to arrive in due time at a just evaluation.

Nothing is less becoming to youth than a chronic sneer. Don't let your child develop it. Purge the home atmosphere of those elements of criticism and unkind gossip which foster it.

The witchery of its marvelous flavor rests on facts

- ★ 1—"Canada Dry" is made from high-quality Jamaica ginger and through our exclusive extraction process retains all the flavor and aroma of the ginger root.
- ★ 2—"Canada Dry" is made from absolutely pure ingredients, blended and balanced in exact proportions. A secret process of carbonation enables it to retain its sparkle long after the bottle is opened.
- ★ 3—"Canada Dry" is tested daily under laboratory methods to assure its purity. Leading hospitals serve it. Leading physicians prescribe it. Here is a better, purer ginger ale.

CONSEQUENTLY, "Canada Dry" is served the wide world over. In London . . . in the Houses of Parliament at Ottawa . . . at famous clubs and hotels in New York. And in countless homes throughout America.

Drink it with dinner tonight . . . when friends call. Give it to the children. Notice its mellowness . . . its "dryness" . . . its refreshing sparkle . . . and its marvelous flavor.
